Pike Rink Loses To Fort William In Curling Finals

In the Northwestern Ontario Curling playdowns held at Fort William, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Darwin Wark's Fort William rink captured the Northwestern Ontario Curling Association title Sunday with a decisive 13-4 victory over the Kenora representative skipped by Jack Pike in an extra game playoff.

The Kenora Quartet had swept unbeaten through the first two days of the annual classic with six successive wins only to be stopped 9-7 by Fort William on the final scheduled draw Sunday. Fort William had been beaten once by Port Arthur, leaving Fort William and Kenora tied with six wins and one loss apiece.

In the playoff, Fort William counted three on the first end and were never behind. Pike was within one point of tieing the score after the seventh end. Wark, however, counted three on the eighth and then removed all doubt with a five-ender on the ninth.

Fort William now enters the Northern Ontario final, the winner of which goes to the Dominion Championship.

Mrs. E. Brinkman Called To Rest

Friends, neighbours and relatives learned with regret of the sudden passing of Mrs. Emilie Brinkman, beloved wife of Mr. Edward Brinkman of 508 Third Street North, at the Kenora General Hospital, Saturday, February 7th, 1959.

The late Mrs. Brinkman was born January 1st, 1893 in Russia and was in her 67th year. She came to Canada with her parents when an infant. They took up residence in Green Bay, Manitoba, and they later moved to Beausejour. She received her education in Green Bay and Beausejour. She was a member of the Lutheran Church of Beausejour and Kenora.

She came to Kenora in 1910 with her late husband, G. A. Langner and in 1929 her marriage to Mr. Edward Brinkman took place. The late Mrs. Brinkman took a keen interest in flowers and gardening and although suffering from a heart ailment kept pace with this hobby.

She was very fond of young people, and being endowed with a hospitable nature and a happy disposition, her home was often the gathering place for the younger set.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Edward Brinkman, two daughters, Mrs. Bus. (Lenora) Dubois, Mrs. Ted (Margaret) Houghton both of Kenora; two sons, Herbert Langer of

SOLID ACHIEVEMENT IN MANY N.O.T.O. MATTERS GAINED — PRESIDENT GILES

A year of solid achievement in promoting Ontario's second largest industry - the Tourist Business, was the keynote of the opening session of the 31st annual convention of the Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters, voiced by President Bob Giles of Rutter, Ontario, when some 150 delegates assembled in the Masonic Hall this morning. The president's address, followed by the report of Mr. Al Palmer of Dryden, secretary-manager of NOTO, were the main business items on this morning's agenda.

Special guests today are Alan Field, Director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, Ottawa, and Mr. Mel McMullen, Deputy Minister of Industry and Commerce for Manitoba.

Civic Greetings were extended to delegates by Mayor Peter Ratuski, who expressed pleasure at seeing such a large number of delegates come from the eastern part of the Province to attend.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Greater recognition is being given to Ontario's three associations which cater to the tourist industry, said President Giles in his opening remarks. In addition to the Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters, two other groups in the Province, OTCA and ATRO, are primarily interested in the tourist business. The three groups formed a Provincial executive (BOTA) during the past year and their combined voice is proving to be a potent force in speaking for the industry, said the president.

President Giles outlined the major activities of the NOTO executive during the past 12 months, detailing the agenda on several meetings with government bodies. Discussed were such matters as highway signs, liquor for the camps, game and fish regulations, long term, low interest loans for Outfitters, and provincial parks development.

In some of these matters, substantial progress had been made. However, the matter of loans, discussed with Hon. Donald Fleming, Minister of Finance, proved unrewarding. The association was told that this was a matter for the Provincial government. The tourist industry was considered "poor risks." The speaker pointed out that other provinces were making greater headway in the industry than was Ontario, and it might well be "that Ontario will lose the goose which lays the golden eggs."

The Dept. of Highways has been "very co-operative and some ground was gained," said Mr. Giles. The Associaiton had opposed the opening to commercial establishments in provincial parks as being unfair competition.

Shrove Tuesday Is Traditional Pancake Day

Shrove Tuesday which is tomorrow, February 10 is an occasion in many countries for celebration parades and feasting. It is also known as Pancake Day. These traditional golden brown cakes, glistening with syrup and crowned with butter will be served at least once in many homes all across the country as we prepare to observe the solemnities of the Lenten season.

Pancake Day has a religious significance. In 1,000 A.D. an English clergyman, Abbot Aelfric, issued a proclamation that in the week immediately before Lent everyone shall go to his confessor and confess his deeds, and the confessor shall so shrive him "as he may hear by his deeds what he is to do."

Usually everyone left it to the last day and it was quite a sight to see the housewives flocking to church to be "shriven" or absolved of their sins. When the bell tolled everyone dropped what they were doing and went to church. This was a day of feasting and the cakes eaten on those days were originally called shriving cakes. Later the day immediately preceeding the start of the Lenten season became known as Shrove Tuesday.

In the early Christian era pancakes became the official dish for the main meal on the day before Lent began. Fasting was much more rigid then than it is now, for not only was meat forbidden but the faithful abstained from milk, eggs, butter and lard. The housewife accordingly used up all her supplies of these commodities in the day prior to the beginning of Lent.

We use the same basic formula for our pancakes today as they did in ancient times. However we use additional leavening other than eggs to ensure light fluffy cakes. We maintain the four symbolic ingredients: eggs for Lenten sacredness, flour for the staff of life, salt for wholesomeness and milk for innocence.

The housewives of Olney, England, have been racing one another to church on Shrove Tuesday carrying pancakes, ever since medival times. The cakes must be flipped a certain number of times during the course of the race, and the winner is rewarded with a kiss from the bell-ringer. For some years now the ladies of Olney race against a team of ladies of Liberal, Kansas, who run a course the same length. The international winner is the pancake carrier covering either course in the same time.

Canada has got into the act too. Last year for the first time a race was run on Salt Spring Island, B.C. The race was run over a 50 yard course in the business section of the town and promises to be an annual event.

Wpg. Investment Dealers Review Petroleum Industry

WINNIPEG — Natural Gas presented a curious condition of antithesis at the end of 1958, because of the "heavy cloud of doubt and uncertainty" surrounding the Borden report, say James Richardson and Sons, Investment Dealers, in their thirteenth annual oil and gas reference book entitled WESTERN CANADIAN OILS. Otherwise, however, the authors explain, the period of consolidation which occurred in 1958 has passed and the beginning of 1959 finds the petroleum industry "giving encouraging indications of resuming its previous growth trend."

The booklet points out that the new growth will not be as vigorous as that which has characterized all but one of the post-Leduc years. Particular emphasis must be placed in the future, it says, on "the calibre and experience of management and financial resources, in that order, when selecting investment or speculative oil and gas stocks."

Outlining "the oil picture in brief," the general analysis explains that for the first time in many years the petroleum industry, apart from natural gas, experienced a setback in 1958 from the previous year, with both production and consumption down moderately. There was intense competition in world oil transportation costs and thus a reduction in markets for Canadian crude oil at ocean contact points.

While this is disappointing, the authors add, it is regarded as temporary, and the intermediate and longer term outlook is by no means gloomy. Major oil companies, they report, predict that the ground lost in 1958 will be more than recovered in 1959, although the rapid growth of the exploration and development divisions of the industry since the Leduc discovery cannot be maintained.

Natural gas is the leading subject for analysis in the booklet. Sketching in brief the principal Borden report recommendations, the authors discusss the industry reaction to various items, both favourable and adverse. A table of estimated reserves is included, with a market supply and demand projection to 1987 which indicates a possible total Canadian market of 1.7 trillion cubic feet per year by that time, compared to 234 million cubic ft. last year. They project a probable discovery rate of two trillion cubic feet to 1970 and one trillion each year after that. In spite of large probable consumption the actual disposable reserves would increase every year to 1987 if the two-trillion discovery rate were maintained after 1970.

"It may be said with confidence that, as far as Canada is concerned, natural gas has 'arrived,' " the booklet declares. "The next big step is export to the United States, particularly in the Pacific coast states and those of the northern plains." It outlines the Westcoast and Alberta and Southern plans for a large export gas pipe line south from Alberta, to tap the prolific foothills reserves, and the Trans-Canada project for export of gas south of Winnipeg to the northern states. "All parties concerned are now anxious for the Canadian Government to establish its policy in regard to natural gas as rapidly as possible," it concludes.

Within its total of 56 pages, the oil booklet also contains the annual statistical summary of companies, a few pages of general industry statistics, a stock price range table for the year, a separate expended list of companies in the natural gas business, and a few items of "stop press" news.

WESTERN CANADIAN OILS — 1959 may be obtained, without charge, from any James Richardson and Sons office, located in most principal Canadian cities.

N.O.T.O. Convention Delegates . . .

Public relations was a key committee in NOTO and good-will was stressed in all dealings. The president said that NOTO's "positive, practical approach" to problems which are common to members of Anglers and Hunters' clubs had brought about a better understanding. The convention gave their president a merited ovation for his work as outlined in his comprehensive report.

Mr. Al Palmer of Dryden, NOTO's new secretary-manager was also given a warm welcome. His report dealt chiefly with finances, and showed that the budget of the Association was increasing each year, as more activity on behalf of the membership was entered into. Finances will be discussed at a later session.

Ralph Webb was named to head the resolutions committee and Weldon Moore the nominations committee.

Registrations had neared the 200 mark by early afternoon, with delegates arriving from as far east as Pittsburgh. Last night was "Open House" in the president's suite at the Hotel Kenricia.

Business sessions continue this afternoon, with a dance and jamboree scheduled for this evening.

How research saved Sherry Anderson's life

SHERRY ANDERSON was born a "blue baby". She had four defects in her heart which robbed her blood of the oxygen it needed. Her parents knew about the "blue baby" operation, but they also knew it had not always been beneficial.

Sherry was particularly fortunate because medical research had just developed a very efficient Heart Pump. This "pump" actually does the work of the heart during an operation, allowing surgeons time to make complete repairs.

Medical research is also striving to discover the various causes of heart disease, with the ultimate hope of preventing it. This valuable work is being correlated and stimulated by the National Heart Foundation of Canada.

Because the life insurance companies in Canada believe in the Heart Foundation, they have given it strong financial support. This is just one of many ways in which these companies help to create a healthier, happier life for Canadians.

Electric Blankets to Be Washed, Not Dry-Cleaned

The matter of proper care for fine woolen blankets always has been a perplexing problem. Probably there are as many different thoughts on this subject as there are blankets. When it comes to electric blankets, however, most of us would like to give up in despair. The questions come: Does this need to be cleaned? If so, how? what is the best way? Should I dry clean it? Should I wash it? Or should I just hang it out to air?

The manufacturer's instruction tag usually will provide the right answers to these questions. Just in case your instruction tag is lost, here are some answers: First: Do not dry-clean your electric blanket. Always wash it.

Wash It Two Ways

Whether washed by hand or in an electric washer, be sure lukewarm water and lots of suds are used.

When washing by hand, the electric blanket should be well soaked; suds should be squeezed through thoroughly for five minutes and rinsed. Then the blanket should be gently squeezed again. It should never be wrung to remove rinse water.

In an electric washer, soap or detergent should be completely dissolved in warm water before the blanket is put in the machine. Soak for ten minutes. After this initial washing period, the machine should be set to agitate or tumble for one minute, and then to spin for two minutes, or until the water has drained from the tub. A thorough rinsing in warm water, plus setting it to agitate for about a minute, and a final spinning of two minutes should complete the washing process.

While most new models of electric blankets have the plug stitched into the blanket, older models have free-hanging cord and plug. To protect these when washing, wrap them securely into a wash cloth.

Care Pays Dividends

To dry the electric blanket, drape it across two clotheslines a foot or two apart. It is a good idea to shade the blanket. If an automatic dryer is used, preheat the dryer before inserting blanket. It is recommended that turkish towels or some other non-shedding materials be placed in the dryer along with the blanket to absorb moisture and to buffer the tumbling action.

Set the machine to tumble for ten or twenty minutes on high heat. Then the blanket can be removed and hung on clotheslines; or plugged in to permit the blanket's own wiring to complete the drying.

Blankets should be stored in the boxes they came in, or in tightly sealed containers for best protection. Moth balls should never be used when storing electric blankets. Most blankets today are made of mothproof fabrics; additional mothproofing can cause damage to wires.

Dark Stair Danger

Unlighted stairwells are a household menace. There should be a ceiling fixture at the foot and head of each stairwell with a switch at both ends so that light can be provided when walking up or down.

Off-Center Accents

Conversation pieces will attract more attention from your guests if you light-accent them with off-center ceiling fixtures. The bullet-type ceiling hung fixture is the most versatile for this purpose.

LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY

NATIONAL ELECTRICAL WEEK
FEBRUARY 9TH TO 15TH

HOW THE ELECTRICAL INDUSTRY ENSURES BETTER LIVING FOR ALL CANADIANS

When Thomas Edison died in 1931, it was suggested that electrical power be shut off for one minute on the day of his funeral. Can you imagine the chaos if the suggestion had been acted upon. Cars piled up at busy cross streets with no traffic control lights; men and machines at a standstill; hospital services endangered. Without signal systems, there would be no fire and police protection, no plane or train controls. It was quite obvious that we couldn't afford to be without electricity even for 60 seconds!

Canadians use more electricity in their homes than any other people on earth. And consumption is more than doubling every decade.

In almost all of our homes today, besides lighting, there are at least nine types of electrical appliances or "servants". You could say that nine is the very minimum required by the average Canadian family. They are all very familiar — the range, refrigerator, washer, toaster, iron, kettle, vacuum cleaner, radio and television. Most homes have many more, with thirty being nearer the mark. Large electrical servants such as water heaters and dryers, freezers and dishwashers; smaller units like clocks, fans, Hi-Fi, electric blankets, coffee makers, food mixers and sun lamps. The list is long and grows longer — 70 or more at latest count.

It would seem that those who work on new ways of putting electricity to work for us must have just about figured every possible use for electricity in the home. Actually, this is just the beginning. Lets take a look at some of the exciting new developments — here or just around the corner.

Colour TV is already on the market. Today, it's expensive, tomorrow we will all enjoy colour programmes as well as black and white. And in the field of television there are more great advances coming up. The picture tube—which gets slimmer every year—may be done away with completely. Someday soon, we'll be able to hang thin TV screens on the walls, for 'wide-screen' viewing. Magnetic tape will let us record sound and pictures to be played back at our leisure.

In the kitchen, electronics has already made its presence felt. New ranges that can cook a six-pound roast in 36 minutes, or a nine-pound turkey in one hour, a cake in three or four minutes. And nothing is lost in flavour, aroma or nutritional value.

Electro-luminescent panels may soon supply all our lighting needs. Installed on the walls and ceilings, we will be able to decorate our homes simply by controlling the intensity and colour of the light transmitted by the panels.

Now coming into use in some parts of the continent is the heat pump. There is little doubt that eventually the heat pump in some form will look after both heating and cooling in the home.

The wonderful world of electricity and electronics is full of surprises. Some of these advances are still being developed, many are now on the drawing boards of our leading manufacturers. The future looks bright, the resources of a vast and important industry are harnessed to help us all Live Better — Electrically.

Let's now take a look at this industry today. In Canada, the electrical industry supplies highly skilled jobs for over 175,000 people. It is a vital part of every province and every community — enabling Canadians everywhere to enjoy its benefits. The electrical industry is diversified, with each segment having a particular place in the over-all scheme.

The utilities provide us with dependable, low-cost power. As a result, the typical Canadian home uses over 3700 kilowatt hours of electricity each year—or 20% more than the average U.S. household.

The electrical manufacturers supply the 70 or more electrical "servants" now available through your neighbourhood appliance store.

Product designs are subject to the strictest safety and efficiency testing carried out by the Canadian Standards Association. As a result, Canadians buy with confidence more major appliances, per capita, than any other people in the world. It is important to look for the C.S.A. seal of approval before buying any electrical equipment.

The electrical distributor maintains a smooth flow of materials to all parts of the nation. The electrical contractor makes the installations; the inspector gives the final safety checks.

There you have seven segments of the industry, each with a different job to do, but all helping us Live best — electrically.

For children's rooms and halls, recessed baseboard fixtures are available which cast a soft glow at night without getting in anyone's way, the Electric Service League reported.

Remove Fuse First

If you replace an old fixture with a new one, be sure you remove the circuit fuse first. The Electric Service League recommends this as a safeguard against shock. The fuse is re-inserted when the job is done.

Light Mirror

A dressing mirror is easier to use if it is lighted by fixtures on each side and on top, the Electric Service League advises.

REPORT from Queen's Park

Albert Wren, M.P.P.

CHAMBERS REAP A HARVEST

The Northwestern Ontario Associated Chamber of Commerce descened on Toronto with a 51 man delegation to discuss resolutions with the Premier and the Cabinet.

He praised:

1. Determined effort to complete the Trans Canada Highway between the Lakehead and the Manitoba border.

2. Completion of the highway between Atikokan and Fort Frances.

3. Every possible aid to meet the threat from completion of a new harbour at Duluth.

4. Construction of a pulp mill at Sioux Lookout "when economic conditions" permit.

5. Road connection between Sioux Lookout and Savant Lake possibly through acceleration of Anglo-Newfoundland road building requirements.

6. A highway system (of highway not access road proportion) to make Sioux Lookout and Dryden "great towns".

7. Extended geological surveys and economic surveys of the Patricia area.

8. Loan of Dept. of Economics to study the freight rate problem as it applies to Northwestern Ontario.

9. Immediate attention to improvement of the Indian population in the North.

10. Study and favourable comment on every request made of the government.

Yes indeed, it was a great day.

Following the interview the four N.W. Ontario members entertained the delegation at a luncheon in the Speakers Chambers in the Parliament Buildings.

SECONDARY INDUSTRIES FAVOURED

The Premier reiterated his stand on secondary industries. He expressed the opinion that there was no reason why tie plants, lumber mills and the like should not get timber from nearby areas whether licensed or from vacant Crown lands. He left no doubt in anyone's mind that existing industries would be kept in operation.

IMPROVEMENT IN INDIAN AFFAIRS

Everyone is heartened with a statement contained in the Speech from the Throne that Indians in the North will get a better deal. I have urged this kind of action each year in the House and while some improvements have taken place, this year promises to be an important one if the Premier carries out his plans. The whole field of health, welfare, education, will be brightened. And I sincerely hope a means whereby these people will have a high degree of control over the marketing of fur and fish.

BOAT BUILDING INDUSTRY

Too few people know about the boat factory at Dryden and the fine product they turn out. Again I have brought to the Government's attention that Dryden should get a goodly share of the large number of craft purchased each year by government. Local literature pays too little attention to small industries, all important to our economy.

Unusual Play To Be Heard At Music Festival

Tackling an unusual play with an unusual theme will be no novelty for Mrs. Veronica Kirk when she presents "I Rise in Flames" at the Music Festival at the High School auditorium on February 17, in the one-act play division. Mrs. Kirk's skill as a director was seen in the productions, "Devil in Skins" and "Lord of Greed" and in other contributions to Kenora Little Theatre plays here.

However, this moving drama by Tennessee Williams, about the novelist who, through his life-long fight against bigotry and his frank discussions of sex problems, became a storm center of his age, will challenge the skill of the play, and the action takes place during the last few days of his life after he had learned of the censor's ban on an exhibition of his paintings in London. Lawrences work had included such controversial novels as Sons and Lovers, Ladybird, Lady Chatterly's Lover, Mornings in Mexico, as well as poetry and painting.

This unusual play of Dramist Tennessee Williams, author of the stage successes, Rose Tattoo, Streetcar Named Desire, Glass Menagerie and others, was first published by New Directions in 1951. An edition, limited to ten copies and hand printed on umbria, sold at $50 a copy. Another edition, limited to 300 copies, printed on hand made American paper, sold at $50 a copy. The play has not been widely staged, but has caught the imagination of the director and the small but gifted cast consisting of Mr. Frank Fowles, Mrs. Jane Burns and Mrs. Charles Cowlard.

B&W 22 min.

Still in process of a revolution begun some thirty-five years ago by the dictator - leader Kemal Ataturk, Turkey is a curious mixture of ancient and modern, Asian and European. Quaint puppet figures in storybook setting enact an old Eskimo legend about the sleepy hunter who, through an act of kindness, gains the ability to catch all the seals he wants. IN MEMORIAM

STAVELEY — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Jane Staveley, who passed away February 7th, 1958.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The worlds, weary troubles and trials are past,
In silence she suffered, in patience she bore,
Till God called her home to suffer no more.

Ever remembered by her husband, sons Graham and Norman and daughter Muriel.

New Driver's Handbook Now Available

Ontario drivers, whether newly licensed of with many years' experience, will find much of interest or value in a new publication of the Ontario Department of Transport — The Driver's Handbook.

"Safe driving and the protection of all who use the streets and highways," Hon. John Yaremko, Minister of Transport announces, "is the basis upon which the Handbook was planned. It has been written clearly and has many illustrations, so that all drivers may readily understand its contents. Anyone reading the booklet will agree with the remark in the introduction that "driving an automobile is a full-time job, requiring the driver's complete attention."

The Driver's Handbook contains the latest information and explanations of the rules of the road, parking, what to do in case of an accident, vehicle equipment and maintenance, how to get and keep a licence to drive, road signs, traffic lights, road markings and recommendations for safe driving under poor or difficult conditions. Questions and answers typical of those asked applicants for licences are also included. It concludes with a description of the Demerit Point System.

"The Ontario Department of Transport," said the Hon. Mr. Yaremko, "will continue to look for and put into effect every possible means of making Ontario streets and highways the safest in the world. The Driver's Handbook is intended to give all drivers the opportunity of re-examining their own driving and making improvements where needed for their own and others' safety."

The Driver's Handbook may be obtained from any office of the Department of Transport in Ontario or by writing the Department at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto 2.
