A VALUABLE AID

With a view to assisting in the development of industry in Northern and Northwestern Ontario, the Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company has recently published a survey of potential industrial opportunities for the area. Prepared by the Company's Industrial and Research Division, the survey is an exhaustive study of present imports of goods to these sections of Ontario, in the hope that information thus offered may indicate possible fabrication gaps in both industrial and agricultural activity.

The book has six sections. Section one deals with materials, goods and products imported in bulk form and used for further processing. For this purpose, the districts of Kenora and Thunder Bay have been combined. Readers will gain a better insight into the amount of work which has gone into the preparation of the material, from the following breakdown. Under chemicals imported, no less than 41 individual commodities are listed, giving the number of pounds or tons of each and the dollar values. Under Iron and Steel, there are 15 classifications. Under clothing, several pages are used to enumerate the breakdown, both by sex and age groups. There are five classifications of ladies dresses. They are cotton, house, nylon, nylon and silk and wool. Quantity and values of each are listed.

Building estimates for the year are given by districts and agricultural activity giving the number of acres used in each district for vegetables, small fruits, fodder, hay and potatoes is given. Milk production is given as is a census of equipment on the farms.

To complete this most valuable book, a map and illustrations on how individual communities may use the information is given. Certainly the Northern Ontario Gas Co. Ltd. has offered the people of the area a most helpful aid in assessing industrial potential. No individual community has the personnel or the resources to undertake such a project.

The Kenora Industrial Board has been supplied with copies of the book. There is little doubt that the information will be a valuable aid in pressing the search for new industrial activity for the district.

Dancers Ask For More After Xmas Dance Festival

Christmas was "hustled out all over" on Tuesday Dec. 15 at the King George VI school, and even the most wary stranger would have been quick to guess just what was taking place. With the lively hoedown type music and the beautiful decorations, it couldn't be anything else but a Xmas Dance Festival.

A real eye-catching piece of decorating was the first greeting just inside the door — it was a Christmas Choir complete with stained glass windows and pipe organ and flanked by red poinsettias all made of paper by the grade six pupils. A truly outstanding piece of Christmas art and worth anyone's time to make a side trip to see. The decorations inside the auditorium featured silver and white with touches of red and green and not one but two Xmas trees both beautifully decorated — one either side of the stage.

Almost a hundred dancers enjoyed a full evening of square and round dancing, and there were numerous prize winners including Gordon McNeubel, Peggy Walker, Ann Baker, Judy Ross and Irene Bellan. Callers for the evening were Stan Scott, Lorne Malmo, Bill Pendrick and Howard Hansen, all of whom kept the dancers stepping at a lively pace. Bonny Yates took care of the round dancing.

Toward the end of the evening Santa appeared and proceeded to distribute presents valued at 40 cents or less. Oh! the thought that had gone into some of those gifts.

As the evening wore on the inevitable lurch appeared — what seemed to be mountains of food and gallons of coffee disappeared in a matter of minutes.

The evening was hosted jointly by the Northern Tumbleweeds, Kenora Round Dance Club, Koo-watin Square Dance Club and the Merry Mixers and was a truly inter-club party.

The biggest complaint and the one most frequently heard was that there should be more dances of this type, all of which brought rumours of a promise of another affair to take place about the end of Feb. and is expected to take the form of a Mardi Gras. See you all there!

Until then remember — It isn't the places you go to dance.

Or the fabulous dresses and fancy paints.

Or the big city caller, or famous band.

That makes square dancing loved throughout the land.

It's the spirit you have and the friendly smile.

That circle of friendship that gives it style.

It's that touch of another person's hand.

As you dance around in a night and-left grand."

Make A Date To Sing Xmas Carols Sunday Night

"Here we come ascending" will be the refrain heard in downtown Kenora tomorrow night as young and old wend their way to the Main Street Christmas tree to take part in the Lions Club annual Christmas Tree Ceremony and singing.

The program is to start at 7:30 p.m. and will be a one hour broadcast on The Salvation Army radio. It will be on hand to accompany the singing and the Cecilia Society choir will also be in attendance. Song sheets will be provided by the Lions Club.

Last year over 1,000 people have to desire below zero weather to raise their voices in singing the Christmas music. With the mild weather predicted for this Sunday, the Lions Club are expecting the biggest crowd yet.

Thieves Take $550 From Local Hotel

Town Police reported today a break-in at the Kenwood Hotel which occurred in the early hours of Friday morning. A cash box containing $550 was taken. The thieves gained entrance through a small loading door at the back of the hotel.

The cash box, minus money, has been found near Quinlan's Blacksmith Shop. Police are still investigating, and no arrests have yet been made.

PAYS $1,312 FINE

Mrs. Jack Cadieux of Ottawa, Ontario, kisses her husband on his release from jail after 3 days of a 210-day sentence. Mrs. Cadieux expecting her eighth child, paid $1,312 in fines to free him so he can run their gasoline station but wouldn't say who put up the money. He had been jailed for refusing to pay the fines, levied for keeping the station open 24 hours a day, contrary to the law.

Magistrate's Court

Largest fine meted out at Magistrate's Court, Friday went to a Kenora man, charged as a third offence drunk. He paid $150 and costs or three months. The same man was given a further fine of $24 or seven days concurrent for having liquor at a place other than his residence.

A female companion of the man was fined $10 and costs or 7 days when charged with being drunk.

A three month suspended sentence was given a Jaffray-Mehk man for committing an indecent act in public.

For having stolen goods in his possession, a man from Melick Township was fined $50 and costs or 15 days.

Supplying intoxicants to Treaty Indians cost a Keewatin man $50 and costs or 30 days. Another man from the same town appearing as a first offence drunk, paid $10 and costs or 7 days.

Licence Fees On Motor Vehicles Up In Ontario

Toronto — Increases in licence fees for about one-third of Ontario's motor vehicles in 1960 were announced Thursday by Transport Minister Yaremko. The increases range from $2.50 to $3.00.

The adjustments will bring the province $2,200,000 in new revenue, the minister said.

Vehicles affected by the increases are: Cars up to 28 horsepower to $15 from $10; dual purpose vehicles, such as station wagons and commercial vehicles with a maximum gross weight of 2 1/2 tons, to $20 from $15; small trailers less than one ton, $5 from $2.50; and motorcycles, except those owned by municipalities, $10 from $5.

The increases are effective

Jan. 1 when 1960 licences go on sale.

Mr. Yaremko said the adjustments placed the "up to 28 horsepower cars" in the same category with those "up to and including 35 horsepower." He added that the adjustments recognize the fact that all motor vehicles, regardless of size, have use on an equal basis of Ontario's 82,000 miles of streets and highways.

The Bottle Is 65 Years Old And It's Full Too!

How many residents of this area can boast of having in their possession, bottles of Rat Portage vintage? Here at the Miner and News, we have one, and it's full too — of CASTOR OIL! The bottle, about four inches high, is of clear glass and stamped in the glass on one side is the name W. D. COATE, Druggist, Rat Portage, Ontario.

This interesting little bottle was found by Tim Piddock of Devil's Gap Lodge. He was out on Anderson Island and found it under a stump!

Since metal caps were not the vogue in the Rat Portage days, this bottle has a stopper, an ordinary cork. Age and the elements have shrunk it somewhat, and the cork is now level with the neck of the bottle. It still serves the purpose it was intended for though, since the bottle is still full of oil.

Not being of Rat Portage vintage, this reporter wonders if any M & N readers remember this particular druggist or where his pharmacy was located. Anyone in need of castor oil may have some (at least since the contents of this particular bottle appear to be in first-class condition, despite its age.

Sharp-Tailed Grouse Population Increase Noted

Conservation Officer A. R. Olsen of the Department of Lands and Forests at Kenora reports that recent observations show that Sharp-tailed Grouse (incorrectly called Prairie Chickens) are found almost throughout the entire Kenora District in increasing numbers where habitat requirements are suitable.

When this area was first being cleared and opened for settlement, Sharp-tailed Grouse appeared in large flocks and became quite numerous. This high population remained stable for some years according to old-time residents, and then for a while became almost extinct. From that time up until recently, Sharp-tails were rather a rarity and only occasional small flocks were noticed.

During a recent survey, areas of suitable habitat requirements were checked and in most cases, Sharp-tails were found to be present in flocks ranging in size from 2 to 16 birds. In one case, a covey of 4 birds has been known to inhabit a certain area for several years and has not increased in size. This fall a covey of 8 birds was found in this small area. Either this flock has reproduced and increased in number, or other birds have joined the covey; at any rate, the population in this one place has increased 100%. Most of the birds observed this past summer and fall were seen in the Dryden area.

During this recent survey very little effort had to be spent in locating flocks of Sharp-tails. If they were being hunted, an individual's ability with a shotgun would be the one governing factor as to whether or not the hunter bagged his limit. Hunting these gamey, fast-flying birds could be quite a sport in this District as it is in other States and Provinces where they are found. They are very wary birds and usually flush well out of range of a 410 shotgun and seldom sit long enough to be shot with a .22. For this reason a 16 or 12 gauge shotgun would be the most effective weapon.

These large, light-colored grouse may be distinguished from any other grouse by their short, sharp-pointed tails which in flight appear white. The tail distinguishes them from their closest relatives, the Prairie Chickens, (Pinnated Grouse) which are darker in colour and have short, rounded tails. Other identification marks are a very shaped marking on the breast by the neck, and a white patch on the breast in the male. During the moulting season in the spring the neck patch becomes purple and white.

When they land the Sharp-tailed Grouse is a low, compact animal which can be described as being like the bird's head and neck is light, the wings are very quickly for a short period then the birds can be at a distance, balanced by more, but movement of the wings there is never continuous wing movement.

In late February or March Sharp-tails are visible on the all-wood clearing grounds, where they eat and display. The population is very interesting, as we say amusing, and takes place at dawn or dusk and occasionally throughout the day. The birds dance and jump, drag their wings and "coo". The bare patches of skin on the neck become purple in colour and inflated; these patches are very noticeable at such times.

The range requirements of Sharp-tailed Grouse are almost open, farmlands which have grown to grass and scrub, also grain stubble fields and burned-over areas. In all cases plenty of cover must be available, such as bush lands surrounding stubble fields. It has also been noted that most flocks are found in areas where a creek or stream flows nearby, with an adjacent swamp and alder thicket.

If you are a grouse hunter and feel that ruffed grouse and spruce grouse don't test your marksmanship sufficiently, next season try for a few "Sharp-tails" for real sport and pass on information concerning number seen and bagged to the Department — your much-appreciated co-operation will add to the total knowledge concerning it, without which proper game management is impossible.

SHOT BY POLICE PLEADS NOT GUILTY

David L. Moody who was shot by police in a laneway behind his home last October 14 elected trial by jury. Mr. Moody was fixing his car at the rear of his home when two policemen dressed in old ragged clothes approached him. They were investigating a series of break-ins in the area. Moody began swinging a heavy chain at the officers and was shot through the lungs. Above he is shown with his wife arriving at court where he has been charged with assaulting police and having an offensive weapon.

Discoverer Of Turkeys Has Monument

No one sitting down for a succulent turkey dinner this Christmas would deny that there ought to be a monument to the man who discovered this bird.

But how many Canadians know that such a monument exists?

It is at Boynton, Yorkshire, England, carved on the ledger of the local church, according to the British Travel Association.

The discoverer's name was William Strickland. He commanded a ship under Sebastian Cabot when that explorer anchored off South America in the 1530's.

Strickland commanded a foraging party which went ashore and brought some domesticated turkeys from the natives. He brought some back to Britain 96 years before the Pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth, Mass. Most British turkeys to this day are descended from those in ports.

In 1550, Strickland bought a turkey at Boynton and applied for a coat of arms, and made his crest a turkey. The arms were carved on the ledger of the town church. There the turkey sits, today, fat and plump and thrust out, ready to gobble.

A Message For Our Day

THE KENORA
MINISTERIAL ASSOC.

If asked, what is man's greatest need,—an individual man's deepest desire—we could answer: friendship or fellowship. There is no one so strong or self-sufficient as not to need it. Likewise, there is no one who is so weak as to continually refuse it. A certain author once wrote, "Individual freedom is a fraud. In this life it is only human relationships that matter." This lady went on to tell of an elderly pioneer woman to whom she said, "I came out here to be alone. Don't you have to be alone?" The answered, "I thought so once. Now I know better." No person can live unto himself completely. Christianity is not a private religion but is a way of life that has to be shared with mankind. Our reaction to Jesus Christ, our belief in Him as Lord and Saviour has to take into consideration the needs of our brethren. Christmas time places more emphasis upon sharing with others, and tends to de-emphasize the personal in favour of others. Thus it, as it should be, for Christ came not only to bring compassion and tenderness, but brotherhood and understanding.

The goodness of God, the naturalness of God, the simplicity of God, the friendliness of God, this is the Christmas message, this is why our thoughts centre on a little boy. God comes and speaks to us in a language we can all understand. Beside that language, all men speak and understand—our mother-tongue, English, American, and Scandinavian, Italian, German, Slav and Greek, African, Chinese and Japanese. Not understanding the other tongue, all understand the language of simple love, set forth in an infant in a cradle. God in Christ, in whom the thoughts and feelings and hopes of all mankind are drawn together in One Life.

The coming of the Christ-child was God's gift to man-kind—and the birth of Jesus Christ was not purposeless. When we receive a gift, our appreciation for it, is in part determined by its usefulness and finally by what the gift is. The Babe of Bethlehem grew into a Man whose life and works witnessed to the abundant goodness of God, Jesus' character and His Redemptive work are God's gift to the world—and a gift so great that words fail to express its precious character. Some people are good but they are stingy in their goodness. Not so our God. The blessings which He bestows are not bestowed in begrudging fashion. Then His goodness is satisfying. "He satisfies the longing soul, and filleth the hungry soul with goodness." "When they did all out and were filled." "To all He came and ever comes, not simply in the spirit of one who performs benevolent deeds, but with warmth of heart, and a spirit of love which is a true concern for the needy.

O come, let us adore Him
Who is born, Christ the Lord.

The Rev. S. G. Tomes,
Assistant Curate,
St. Albans Pro-Cathedral

"Do you think my son has a bright future in music?" asked the doting mother.
"Indeed I do, madam. I see him polishing the instruments for a brass band."

MANDO DECLARES DIVIDEND

Minneapolis, Minn.—The board of directors of Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company have declared a quarterly cash dividend of 40 cents on each share of the capital stock. The dividend is payable Feb. 1, 1960, to shareholders of record at the close of business Dec. 31, 1959.

Today's children are taller, sturdier and healthier than those of previous generations. Much of the credit for this is due to public health education of parents who realize the benefit of good nutrition, immunization against contagious diseases, and the availability of public health services.

Coal oil, with its unpleasant taste and smell, has been swallowed by small children who have had access to this poisonous oil. Only fast medical help has saved the lives of those who have survived.

In North America only one-third of the land receives adequate rainfall.

Ontario's Centres Seek Industry Aids

In Ontario to become more and more a few islands of mass population and intensive industrial production amid a vast domain largely under-developed and sparsely populated.

This question was posed at the recent conference in Toronto of the Ontario Regional Development Council, representing the seven development associations functioning in the province.

If effective results are to accrue from the desire for decentralization of industry, practical aids must be provided the smaller communities to attract new industry, members of the council agreed. They pointed to industrial development funds inaugurated in Manitoba and Saskatchewan that already have expanded existing plants and attracted new ones. No such similar plan is in effect in Ontario.

Also disadvantageously affecting smaller municipalities, the conference was informed, are certain provisions of the Industrial Standards Act that, in action, favor industries in the Toronto area.

The Council authorized investigation of both these fields, with the purposes in view of making strong representations to the Ontario Government early in 1960, in behalf of the seven development association.

Attending from the Northwestern Ontario Development Association were Mayor J. L. Skilton, of Dryden, association president, and Alexander Phillips, manager.
