Plan meets opposition

By KEN NELSON
of our staff

The way was left open for Bill Holm to make a formal application to council for a dock and storage building proposal near the southern tip of 4th Ave. S. Wednesday night, but the Kenora Planning Board indicated he could face an uphill struggle.

About 15 residents, who claimed they own property within 400 feet of the proposed project, appeared before the board and presented a list of objections against rezoning the site to M1 (storage, light manufacturing) from the present residential classification.

A week ago, Mr. Holm approached the board after learning the site would have to be rezoned before a building permit could be issued.

At that time the planning board indicated they would recommend to council the project be approved, provided property-owners in the immediate areas were not opposed. The intent of the board with their original suggestion was to allow a building permit after intent had been established by local authorities, that they would rezone the site.

The objectors, who indicated they would like to see Mr. Holm have proper loading facilities to operate his Lake of the Woods freight service, produced a list of reasons why they are against the proposal.

One of the main objections was fears that a freight dock and related storage and maintenance building in their residential area, would depreciate the value of their properties.

Other main objections included possible creation of an unsightly development; possible damage to the environment such as spillage from barges; possible noise annoyance; the fact Kenora has no maintenance and occupancy regulations to enforce should a sight become messy and an eyesore; a possible fire hazard since the nearest fire hydrant is 1,200 to 1,500 feet away; general opposition to a freight service from a residential area; and traffic created by deliveries.

Mr. Holm explained that the building planned would be used for construction and maintenance of his own equipment and serve as a warehouse. He said deliveries from the site would include gravel, lumber and dry goods. Gasoline and pressurized gases would not be permitted from this location, and would have to be loaded elsewhere.

A representative from Land and Forests told the board that authority to building the dock proposed by Mr. Holm comes under the jurisdiction of the government branch. He said lands and forests is presently getting comments from abutting landowners, Kenora council and Ministry of Transport and as yet they have not all been received.

Mr. Holm produced a copy of a committee of adjustment decision from 1971 which indicated consent to use the site as a lake freighting service. It was obtained at the time his property was mortgaged.

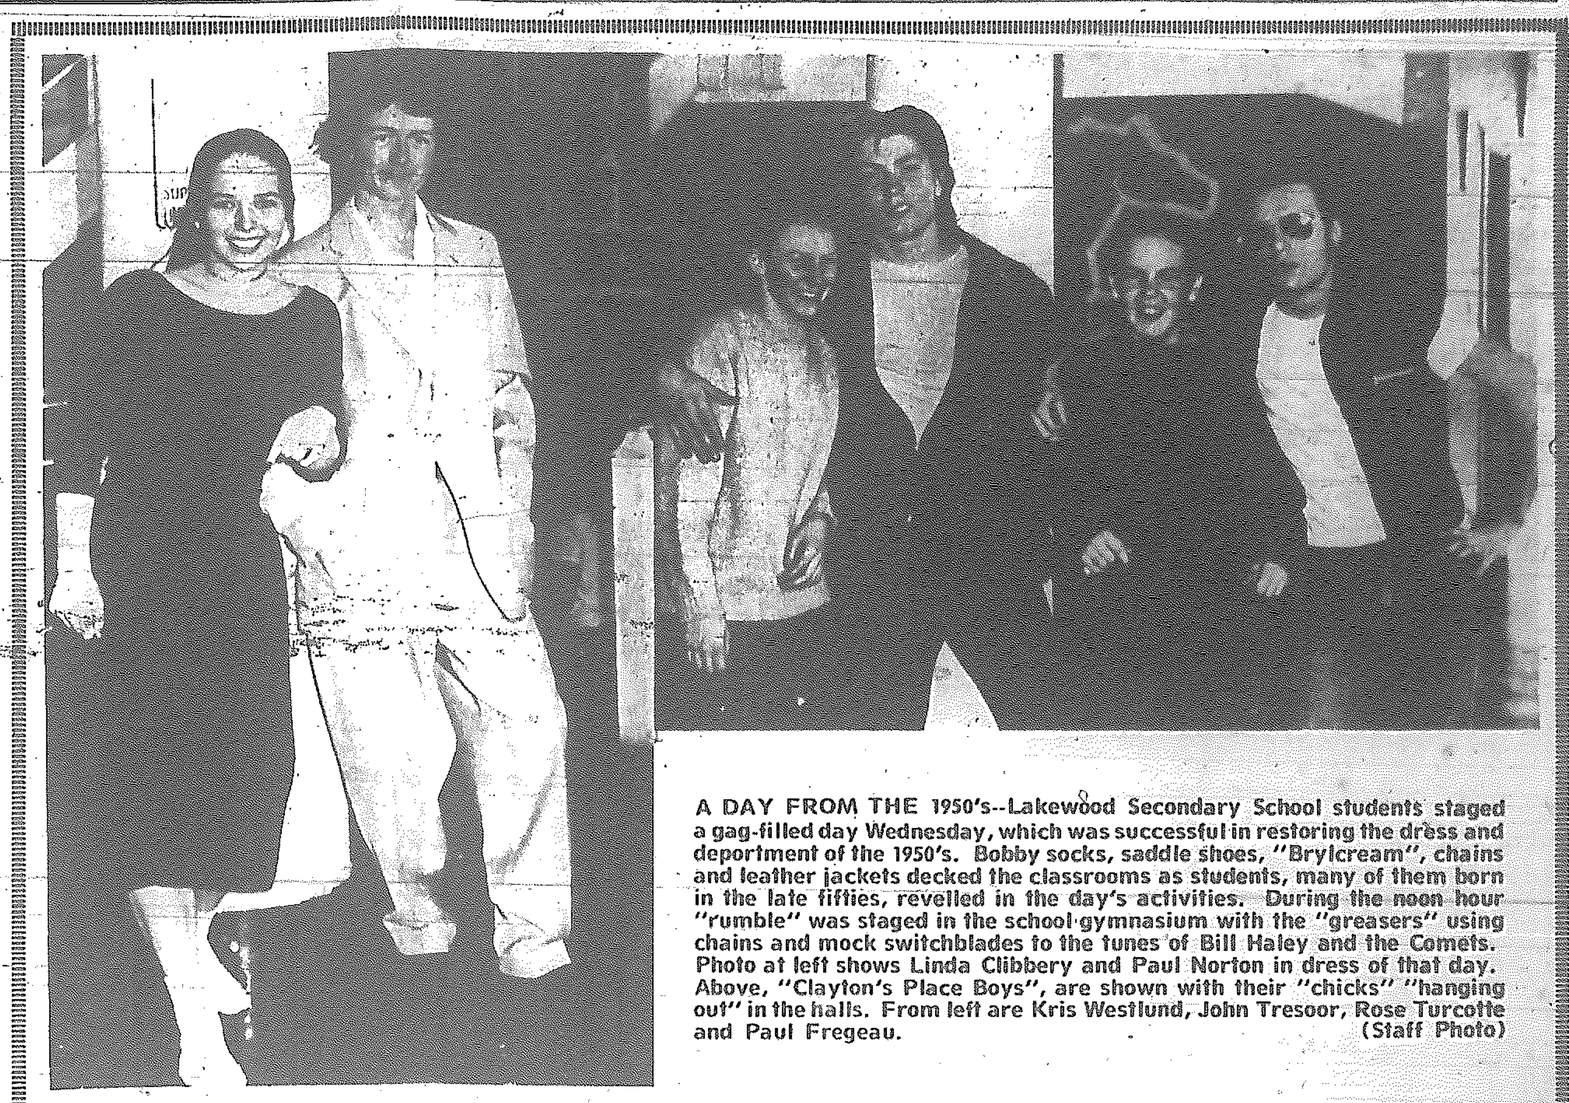
The board indicated the site has to be rezoned in order to permit the proposed development, regardless of the application for consent from the committee of adjustment.

Mr. Holm outlined unsuccessful attempts to obtain proper and legal docking facilities along all Lake of the Woods shoreline in Kenora. He said there is nothing designated where he can load hazardous goods such as flammable gases and compressed gases.

Mr. Holm said last year he delivered more than 200,000 gallons of gases to campowners and other customers on Lake of the Woods, and many are expecting him to continue the service this year.

The planning board sympathized with Mr. Holm and indicated that they would suggest to council that some action be taken to get the senior levels of government together in order that a solution can be reached.

The board indicated the present lack of docking for this type of freight service is detrimental to the community's only growing industry, which is tourism. The citizen's group at the meeting concurred with the board in this matter.



A DAY FROM THE 1950's--Lakewood Secondary School students staged a gag-filled day Wednesday, which was successful in restoring the dress and deportment of the 1950's. Bobby socks, saddle shoes, "Brylcream", chains and leather jackets decked the classrooms as students, many of them born in the late fifties, revelled in the day's activities. During the noon hour "rumble" was staged in the school gymnasium with the "greasers" using chains and mock switchblades to the tunes of Bill Haley and the Comets. Photo at left shows Linda Clibbery and Paul Norton in dress of that day. Above, "Clayton's Place Boys", are shown with their "chicks" "hanging out" in the halls. Complex to be operational this year

of our staff

A group living complex of five residential homes with each accommodating eight teenage children, who are wards of the Kenora Disfrict Children's Aid Society, will be located on a 161 acre site 14 miles from downtown Kenora.

Gary Norris, director of the CAS, said Wednesday the complex should be operational by the end of the year.

The property, acquired sometime ago by the society is on the Coker Rd., about two miles off the Redditt Rd., located in Jaffray and Melick Township.

Mr. Norris said the site in the country was chosen because experience has proven that when such a group home is being considered within the boundaries of an already established community, there is always a considerable amount of adverse reaction.

The CAS now has 335 children within its care, and of this number, 150 are teenagers. The problem confronting the society is the fact that there aren't enough foster homes to accommodate all of the people needing shelter.

The group complex will cater mainly to teenagers, initially, but future plans call for the construction of family treatment units at the site where the whole family, which had previously been broken up, can be joined together again and receive necessary advice, help and counselling, included in a scheme of rehabilitation. The use of homemaker and public health services would be utilized as well as those of other foundations in "getting the family back together again."

Each of the five homes to be constructed, said Mr. Norris, will have a staff member in attendance. Encouragement will be given to those in residence to have their friends or relatives visit, and facilities will be provided, for those, who wish to "stay-over" for a night or two.

All of the homes will be designed so that the interiors will be of a different layout. Study areas will be included and within the complex there will be recreation areas and a dining hall. Breakfasts will be served within each home, students will have their lunches at school, and the evening meal in the dining hall.

Mr. Norris said this type of facility is comparatively new in this country, but is popular in Europe.

The vast area under the jurisdiction of the CAS covers 150,000 square miles, and Mr. Norris said that there are no such group facilities existent anywhere in the district and it was felt that such a complex, located at one central point, would be much more economical and feasible, than having several spotted throughout the district.

A grant in the amount of $200,000 has been set aside by the Ministry of Community and Social Services to assist in the furthering of the proposed group home here, but Mr. Norris said that approaches are being made to corporations and foundations for additional assistance.

The establishment of such a facility in this area would mean that many children who have gone through the courts on minor infractions, would be turned over to the CAS and cared for in the group home, rather than being sent to a training school. The cost to care for a person in the group home, said Mr. Norris, is estimated to be from $5.50 to $7.50 per day, dependent upon the number in residence.

"This is much cheaper for the taxpayer," he said "than the high cost of looking after them in training schools or other such institutions."

It is planned to make extensive use of volunteers to supplement the staff at the new complex. Presently there are many high school students involved in work on a voluntary basis with groups of children, who are under the society's care.

Mr. Norris said that a group of local students have already submitted an application to the government for a grant to get to work on the site, clearing the brushland and the beach area, along Black Sturgeon Lake. He said he had hoped that occupancy could be a reality by September, but this might be delayed somewhat due to changes in senior government ministry personnel.

Child clinic in works

A Child Mental Health Clinic, administered by an advisory board and operating under the umbrella of the Northwestern Health Unit, may become a reality for the Kenora area, says Gary Norris, one of the advisory board, who has been active in investigating the possibilities of the establishment of such a facility here for some time.

Mr. Norris said Wednesday that a previous site had been selected but it was found that a certain amount of adverse public reaction had arisen and it was decided to look elsewhere. Subsequently, approval was received to have the unit included within the complex of the Metis and Non-Status Indian site, now under development in the Lakeside area of Kenora.

Applications have been made to the senior governments, said Mr. Norris, and positive response has been indicated. He said there are 50 such clinics now operative in the province but the closest one to the Kenora-Keewatin region is in Thunder Bay.

Children in the community, with perceptional, audio and visual problems would be cared for in such a clinic. A psychologist, along with provisions for audio and visual therapy would also be included. Children with emotional problems would receive attention and Mr. Norris said that co-operation of all other agencies, dealing with similar situations, would be forthcoming.

New trial and jury ordered

By APRIL HOLLAND
of our staff

An application filed in Supreme Court sittings in Kenora Wednesday, resulted in Mr. Justice Goodman dismissing the 12-man petit jury hearing the trial of Kenneth Carlson, Douglas Brown and Michael Cederwall, because of remarks made in the presence of some jurors outside the court room Tuesday.

In passing the decision His Lordship said, "I discharge you on the grounds that you may have been unduly influenced by remarks made by the Inspector of the local police force in charge of the Criminal Investigation Branch in material evidence before me, making it necessary for me to discharge you.

"I wish to make it clear that although you are discharged, there is no suggestion that any one or more of you have acted improperly or that contact has actually been made, but as a result of evidence I have heard, I must discharge you.

"I hope none of you feel that you have wasted your time in performing your duty. You may now realize the safeguards set up for persons accused of a crime."

Mr. Justice Goodman then retired to chambers to discuss with Crown counsel E.C. Burton, and defence counsel John Bowles of Winnipeg whether the trial would proceed at this sitting of the Supreme Court in Kenora with a new jury, or whether the trial should go on in another court in another centre.

At 5.10 p.m. His Lordship returned a decision.

"Having discharged the jury in this case I have reached the conclusion that the accused are to be tried with a new jury at the next sitting of this court in Kenora. In my opinion, having regard to the fact that a number of the jury panel have sat through part of proceedings in this aborted trial, these accused could not receive a fair trial at the present sittings. I am advised that the three men are on bail and that bail will continue until the trial of these accused."

Board plans discussion meetings

Kenora Planning Board decided Wednesday night they would hold a regular monthly discussion period to better familiarize members with business at hand.

The discussion meetings will be held the third Thursday of each month. Regular business meetings, where applications are formally dealt with by the board, are held on the fourth Thursday monthly.

Board vice-chairman Joe Muetze said today the discussion meetings will allow board members to look at a site of proposed development, if needed, in advance of the regular meeting, where recommendations are drafted for council's consideration.

He said the new system should result in board members developing informed opinions on various matters rather than being surprised by particular items, which may come on the agenda.

Mr. Muetze said it is unfair to board members in many cases to look at a matter, and then be expected to vote on it immediately at the same meeting.

Mr. Muetze, who chaired Wednesday nights special meeting in the absence of chairman Don Sweeney, said the board also plans to take a look at alloting time for delegations. The board spent two hours with the developer and a delegation concerning a dock and storage building proposal, and another hour with the applicant seeking to build a home in non-conforming area. As a result the board was unable to complete its agenda during the 3½ hour meeting.

The board decided to invite the Kenora district planner, who is based in Thunder Bay with the Ministry of Housing, to a meeting in the near future. Purpose of the meeting is to seek clarification on various planning matters which have raised questions among board members at meetings this year.

In other business, the board recommended that council consider rezoning an area mainly between 9th and 10th Ave. S. on Park St. from M1 (light industry) to residential.

The rezoning suggestion stems from an application by Myron Bowen to build a home on Park St. The area contains mostly housing.

If council concurs with the rezoning, the board is in favor of granting a building permit for the home before the area is officially rezoned, which could take several months.

Workmen fix water break

A break in a municipal watermain on Third Ave. S., Monday, created some problems for Public Works and Waterworks crews and a disruption of service to the immediate area, for several hours.

George Goodwill, superintendent of public works, said Wednesday that the four inch main, was of the older vintage and blames the break a combination of frost action and just plain "old age."

Although some inconvenience was experienced by householders in an area from the vicinity of the recreation centre to Seventh St. S. and the Third and Fourth Ave. S. areas, it came as a real "break" for the pupils in South Ward School.

It was announced that there would be no classes held at the school during Tuesday, on account of the lack of water. No complaints from those in regular attendance were voiced.

Mr. Goodwill said that the frost action to date this year, has not been as bad as had been anticipated earlier.

"However, we aren't out of the woods yet, and we can still experience more trouble," he said.

Northwestern health unit concerned with VD reports

Each month the Northwestern Health Unit, encompassing Dryden, Fort Frances, Kenora, Red Lake, Sioux Lookout and Rainy River record an alarming number of cases of venereal disease.

Dr. Peter Playfair, medical officer of health, at Kenora said that the failure to identify and treat contacts is one of the causes for the number of reported cases.

He said that health unit staffs will continue to be instructed in special workshops, in interview techniques, and contact tracing.

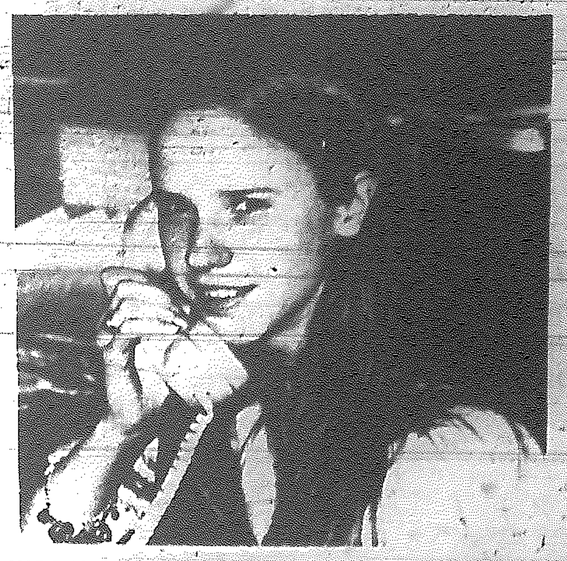
Dr, Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, in a statement prepared for Canada's 30th National Health Week, to be observed this year Apr. 7-13, says that gonorrhea and syphillis are the most dangerous and long-lived of all diseases. Syphillis was named by Sir William Osler as "Captain of the Men of Death" and may be fatal if it is not treated.

The two diseases at the present time are spreading all over the world in epidemic form, says Dr. Bates. He said that 2½ million cases in the US this year is an indication of their present prevalence. Some of the results of gonorrhea could be permanent blindness acquired at birth.

Dr. Bates says that these most sinister maladies are acquired generally by sexual contact. They are frequently conveyed by an infected spouse and are dangerous and fatal. Some of the results are blindness, deafness, insanity, and infection of the bones. The ultimate result is too frequently disability or death.

The director of the Health League said that all should abandon passive acquiescence and think, and work, and fight for what, in our hearts, we know is right.

Dr. Playfair said that health unit staffs will continue to be instructed in special workshops, in interview techniques and contact tracing. Venereal disease teaching kits will be given even wider distribution throughout the province as part of an intensive overall program to assist in reducing the incidence of VD in the future.



WORK ORIENTATION PROGRAM--Debbie Speight, Beaver Brae Secondary School, is one of 18 students from secretarial and clerical courses who are participating in a work-experience program. The students are placed in offices for a one week period, return to school for two weeks and then go back out on April 22 for further experience. All will graduate from grade 12 this year. Miss Speight is presently putting in her stint at the reception desk at the Kenora Miner and News. (Staff Photo)

16 year-old sentenced to life

MILTON, Ont. (CP) — Terry Burdick, 16, of Burlington, Ont., was sentenced Tuesday night to life imprisonment after being found guilty of the murder of a 14-year-old youth.

Mr. Justice J. F. Donnelly of the Supreme Court of Ontario in imposing the sentence recommended that the teen-ager be eligible for parole in 10 years. That had been a suggestion of the six-man, six-women jury that found Burdick guilty.

He was charged with non-capital murder in January, 1973, after the body of Andreas Rilett, 14, was found in a field behind Burdick's home in Burlington.

Burdick was identified in court by Rilett's parents and younger brother as the youth who left with the Rilett youth the night of Dec. 1, 1972—the last time Rilett was seen alive.

Dr. Hans Sepp told the court that Rilett had been stabbed to death and had 10 wounds in the abdomen and five on his face.

A blood-stained penknife was found near the youth's body, and witnesses linked the knife to Burdick.

Mr. Justice Donnelly was the defence lawyer in the September, 1959, trial of Stephen Truscott, perhaps Canada's most famous juvenile murder trial.

Truscott was convicted of the June, 1959, rape and murder of his Clinton, Ont., school-mate Lynne Harper, 12, and sentenced to death.

The sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment and the case received widespread publicity.

Last year, we set up a new $150 Employment Expense Deduction that applied to most Canadians...but almost half a million people forgot to take it.

Probably because it was new and we didn't tell you enough about it, you forgot to take advantage of it. And of course, when we ran across the oversight on your return, we corrected it and made sure you did get it. (Which also explains why a number of people received a refund that was more than they expected.)

Anyway. This year remember to deduct your $150 Employment Expense Deduction, because if we don't have to correct it on your return, we can process it faster and in turn, get your refund to you faster.

Who does it apply to?

Almost every employee who worked for any length of time last year. There are very few exceptions to this, which are outlined in your Guide, Item 4, but by and large it's for everyone who was employed.

Does everyone get an automatic $150?

Actually, it's calculated at a rate of 3% of your employment income, to a total of $150. Which means that if you earned $5,000 or more, you automatically get $150 and you don't have to bother calculating anything.

If you earned less than $5,000, you're entitled to 3% of what you earned as a deduction (i.e., if you earned $3,000 last year, you can claim 3% of that, which is $90, as your Employment Expense Deduction).

Where is the Employment Expense Deduction explained in my guide?

It's Item 4 in the Income Section and it's clearly labelled "Employment Expense Deduction".

Where do I enter it on my form?

On Page 2, the one that deals with "Summary of Income and Deductions". It's near the top of the page in the section labelled "Income from Employment", and you enter the figure on the line numbered 05.

Is anyone allowed more than $150?

No. $150 is the maximum allowed, no matter what you earned. Just remember that if you did earn a salary last year, as an employee, you're almost certainly entitled to the deduction, so take it.

Together, we can get it done.

Sentenced to life for strangulation

EDMONTON (CP) — In a surprise move Wednesday, John Alexander Hutton, 23, of Hamilton pleaded guilty to non-capital murder in the strangulation slaying of 52-year-old Edmonton stock speculator Robert Connolly.

He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Hutton, 24-year-old Stewart William Thompson and 20-yearold Diane Voss, both of Edmonton, were charged after Mr. Connolly's bound and beaten body was found in January, 1973.

The trial in Alberta Supreme Court was delayed for about 30 minutes after the luncheon break Wednesday while defence lawyers talked to their clients.

When the court resumed, Hutton's lawyer, A. M. Harradence of Calgary, stood up and told J. V. H. Milvain, chief justice of the trial division, that his client wished to change his plea.

Hutton showed no emotion as clerk William Lewis read the charge to him. When asked for his plea, he replied in a quiet voice: "Guilty".

Chief Dustice Milvain said: "There's not much point in saying anything. The (Criminal) Code dictates what I must do."

Turning to Hutton, the chief justice said : "I sentence you to imprisonment for life."

Lawyer R. L. Berger, acting for Thompson, immediately asked Chief Justice Milvain to declare a mistrial, claiming Thompson's defence had been prejudiced because of Hutton's change in plea.

J. W. McClung, acting for Voss, requested an adjournment to allow him to decide whether he will join Mr. Berger in applying for a mistrial.

The adjournment was granted

People earning less than $17,000 unlikely to own a home: Handleman

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's new housing minister doesn't hold out much hope for the average family ever owning its own home.

Sidney Handleman, 52, an economist, earns $40,500 a year as minister, owns a waterfront home near Ottawa and maintains a Toronto apartment.

But he says that people earning less than $17,000 a year "don't have much to look forward to in the way of owning a home."

He quickly adds: "They can probably afford fairly decent rental accommodation."

In a recent interview, Mr. Handleman said his Toronto apartment is one "which any modest income earner could afford to rent."

As a student at the London School of Economics after the Second World War, Mr. Handleman studied under some noted "left-wing academics", notably British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Harold Laski.

Mr. Handleman said he wasn't "brainwashed" and his outlook today is firmly rooted in free-enterprise conservatism.

In the interview, he made these observations:

—Big developers are miscast as villains, but are trying to do their best;

—Rent controls could antagonize private investors;

—Individual home buyers add to rising home cos by dabblin in land speculation.

Mr. Handleman said Ontario is in the throes of a housing crisis.

"I think it is a crisis when people who are earning average modest incomes can't satisfy the inner need of man to own the home he lives in.

"It's not a crisis in terms of people not having adequate shelter because people do, for the most part, even low-income people ... which is taking every last penny they have got."

In urban areas, he said, builders are not building houses any more for people who earn $7,500 to $12,500 a year.

People making less than $7,500, he said, would likely never be able to afford their own home.

But for those making about $12,000 "we have some program changes that will bring it back within the realm of possibility for those people to make some financial sacrifices to own their own home."

77 feared dead in South African crash

GABORONE, Botswana (Reuter) -- A DC-4 aircraft crashed outside Francistown, about 250 miles north of here today, killing 77 persons, mostly Malawi miners.

Botswana officials said seven of the 84 persons aboard the four-engined plane survived. One of them was said to be in critical condition.

Witnesses said the propellerdriven aircraft appeared to burst into flames as it tried to return to the airport about two miles outside Francistown a few minutes after takeoff.

The plane was carrying miners back to their homes in Malawi after a spell of work in the gold mines

Uranium.

An important element in Ontario's future.

The growing scarcity of fossil fuels requires that we put all energy resources to best use.

Ontario's most significant energy development is the increasing use of Canada's natural uranium to generate electricity. In addition to being a reliable means of producing electricity, it encourages the development of our country's own natural resources while decreasing dependency on other countries and on other resources such as coal, oil and natural gas. Another important benefit is that uranium provides the cleanest known method of thermal generation.

Although nuclear generating plants are more costly to build, this is moderated by the fact that fuel costs are lower than with other forms of thermal generation.

The transition to nuclear generation is a long-term proposition. Nuclear generating facilities require longer to build. "Heavy water" needed for operation of the reactors will be in short supply for some years until more facilities for the production of adequate supplies can be constructed.

Nonetheless, nuclear generation offers great promise for the future as demonstrated by the excellent performance of the Ontario Hydro Pickering Plant which is now providing approximately 15% of the electric energy made available in Ontario.

Although there is no shortage of electricity in Ontario it makes good sense to use it, and all our resources, wisely.

Roads top priority for Premier Davis

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said Wednesday the government intends to spend large amounts of money on highways in the current fiscal year, the bulk of it for rural and inter-city roads.

The premier said that despite the government's recent emphasis on urban public transit, roads will "continue to be the chief arteries of life and commerce in our rural areas and smaller communities.

His remarks to about 450 delegates to the Ontario Road Builders Association convention was reassuring to his audience, most of them road contractors.

Road contractors have been uneasy since Mr. Davis announced a policy more than two years ago to concentrate on promoting and subsidizing public transit for large urban areas, rather than building expressways or highways.

The premier said details of the new spending will be announced in the provincial budget Tuesday but the increases would be "significant."

Mr. Davis said the increased expenditures would reflect the fact that passenger car mileage on Ontario roads increased by 10 per cent in the last two years.

Crumbled curling rink kills 8

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — City building inspectors and fire department officials today sifted through rubble of the Windsor Curling Club rink in which eight persons died after a tornado hit part of the city.

The officials are trying to determine precisely what caused the roof and one wall to collapse and splatter down debris on many of the 48 players taking part in a mixed bonspiel.

Eleven persons were injured in the disaster and police kept an overnight vigil on the three walls left standing.

Fire department officials said it is possible that lightning struck the building, tearing a hole in the roof and causing so much pressure that the building collapsed.

A weather office spokesman said a tornado touched down in the city's east end, near the location of the curling rink, and may have caused the collapse.

Among the dead was Derek Barlow, 51, the city's building commissioner.

Hospital officials identified the other dead as Donald C. Little, 4, personnel director of the Windsor board of educatio ; KQEITH Allen 42, a charteed accountant; Nick Haddad, 58, owner of a local supermarket; Dr. James Burt, a dentist; Charles Pleasance, 44; Yvonne Beaton, housewife; and Alex Bryan, 40, an engineer with M. M. Dillon Co., consulting engineers.

Leo Belanger of nearby LaSalle was listed in criticat condition.

There were 18 ambulances summoned to the scene, many from smaller towns around the county, and two from Chatham.

Fire department vehicles also arrived from several smaller centres in the area to offer assistance. Every available police officer was called on duty.

Tornadoes stretch 1,000 miles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes struck an area stretching from Georgia to Ontario late Wednesday and early today killing more than 320 persons, the worst tornado death toll in half a century.

Thousands of injuries and millions of dollars in damage resulted from the twisters that hit scores of cities and towns, leaving many in shambles.

Half the town of Xenia, in southeastern Ohio, was devastated. Twenty-four persons were killed and more than 1,000 were homeless in the community of 25,000.

Rows of bodies were arranged in the rubble-strewn streets. More victims were thought trapped in overturned cars, but heavy equipment was unable to get through the streets to lift the vehicles.

Whole neighborhoods were destroyed, buildings levelled, railway cars and trucks upended by the vicious winds that struck the midwestern and southern United States and flattened a curling rink in Windsor, Ont., killing eight persons.

Kentucky appeared to be the worst hit, with 77 known dead and hundreds of injured. Alabama reported 69 dead, Indiana 63, Tennessee 56, Ohio 30, Georgia 5, Ontario, eight, North Carolina four, Michigan three, Illinois two, and West Virginia one.

Early today, two tornadoes hit the town of Meadow Bridge, W.Va., about 50 miles southeast of Charleston, killing one person and injuring several others.

The rampage cost more lives than any series of tornadoes since March 18, 1925, when a twister cut through three midwestern states, killing 689. The 1965 Palm Sunday tornadoes in the midwest killed 271.

In Chicago, forecasters said there was a chance of more tornadoes through Friday. The greatest threat today was either side of a line running from 45 miles southwest of Meridian, Miss., to 35 miles northwest of Columbus, Ga.

The "frontal system will move out to sea by Friday and the threat will be over," a forecast said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lloyd Edgar Eisenhower, 49, nephew of the late president, was found dead Wednesday of an apparent drug overdose, sheriff's deputies said.

Woman started fires to get hubby in bed

MONTREAL (CP) — A 68 year-old housewife recently found the best way to rekindle the romantic fires of her 75 year-old husband was to light fires.

Which is what she did, setting seven fires in the apartment building where she lived to entice her husband back to the conjugal bed.

"For 15 years my husband and I were sleeping in separate bedrooms," she said in a statement to police.

"Whenever there was a fire he would get in bed with me and whisper dear words in my ears. After the first fire he told me he would get a double bed."

The statement was accepted as evidence Wednesday at the trial of the woman accused of arson in a November 27 fire. She was found guilty.

"I missed my sex. I have a husband who is old and does not want to go dancing. He spent most of his time reading and watching television.

"I felt insecure and saw fire everywhere. I don't know what came over me. I was discouraged. I even want to burn the house," the state ment said.

The fires were all minor and caused damage estimated at $4,000.

Sentence was deferred by Judge Roland Langlois of mu nicipal court until he receives pre-sentence reports.

There is a movement starting up in Kenora which is attempting to get curling sanctioned as a school sport by the local Board of Education. And I sincerely hope they get their way.

For a long time now, the high school students in Kenora have been competing in their own leagues, boys, girls and mixed. If they should be so lucky as to win out in the Kenora playdowns they have to walk around with head in hand and ask for donations to cover the expenses of their trip.

I'm not knocking the way the present leagues are being run. They've been going just great. But I would like to see the students get some help from the Board of Education in the future.

Right now I can start to hear the complaints from teachers, in both the high school and elementary levels.

They might say: "Well if we make curling a recognized extra curricular activity then we have to be there to supervise them. There's no way I'm going to be down at the curling club every Saturday and even some nights during the week."

The way to get around these complaints is very simple. What you do is get at least one teacher to curl on a rink in each division i.e. one in the boys, girls and mixed. It wouldn't be that difficult to find three teachers that want a little extra time on the sheets. From my experience this year there were two teachers from Beaver Brae that were taking part in the mixed league last winter.

I, for one, would think the Board of Education should be able to find some money somewhere to assist this large group of students in their efforts next winter.

Why shouldn't they?

The only way these young curlers are going to improve is by taking part in competitions outside of the immediate Kenora area and the only way they will be able to afford it next year will be through assistance of the board.

THEY CALL THAT HOCKEY

There must be an epidemic going around of the fighting sickness.

Just two short nights ago the third game of the Manitoba Junior Hockey League finals broke out into a massive team brawl and then last night two bantam teams at the Kenora Recreation Centre almost followed suit.

It was really surprising to find myself running out onto the ice at the end of the game, not to snap a few pictures but to try and stop the players from taking part in anymore fights.

Although there were only two official fights during the game, both during the last minute and a half, I really don't know what each team had in mind.

The first fight started right after Warren Marshalok broke the Evergreen goaltender's shutout attempt. Marshalok, from where I was standing, looked like he was speared in the stomach by the Evergreen captain.

The Norman player, buckled over and slashed wildly at someone who was skating behind him. Instead of striking the player that was spearing him, he hit Mark Nault across the fore-arm bringing him to his knees.

What followed was a wild series of blows between both team captains. Referees Art Wagner and Herman Phinney handled the situation as best they could and three game misconducts were handed out. One went to each captain and the third to Marshalok for being the third man in on a fight.

After the game was over, a second fight erupted between two players at centre ice. There probably could have been more incidents were it not for the actions of each coach. They came running onto the ice and pulled their players off of the pile.

Ron Schott, coach of Evergreen, was very embarrassed with the way his players misbehaved on the ice and apoligized to minor hockey league president Bill Weare at the end of the night. I felt sorry for both coaches because there isn't very much they could do under the circumstances.

What I'm wondering about, is do the players on both teams really think they proved anything by carrying on in this manner? What ever happened to good sportsmanship, and things like taking the good with the bad?

Let's hope each player thinks twice about his reasons for playing hockey before they come to register next season.

Evergreen wins black and blue final series

Sometimes you have it, and sometimes you don't.

Last night the Evergreen bantams certainly had it while their opponents in the fourth game of the Kenora Minor Hockey League playoffs didn't.

Evergreen, paced by the two goal performance of team captain Ron Engstrom, dumped the Norman Hawks 5-1 to take the bantam finals three games to one.

Although the Hawks tried vainly to pressure the Co-op Dairy team during the early stages of the game their attacks were either broken up before they closed in on goaltender Adrian Kuryliw by consistant backchecking, or they couldn't find the handle when they were in close.

Ron Engstrom opened the scoring early in the first period with both teams playing a man short.

Engstrom picked up a loose puck in the Norman end, swooped in on netminder Allan Koch and beat him with a drive on the short side.

Koch, who received only periodic help from his teammates in front of his net all night, kicked out 26 shots during the game while Kuryliw faced a mere 9.

The second and third goals for the Evergreen team were the kind that every goalkeeper has nightmares about, hoping that they would never happen to him.

John Romanuk attempted to flip the puck over the Norman goaltender who was sprawled out on the ice but it hit one Norman player that was rushing madly, one of the few occasions in the game, to assist Koch. The puck hit the defender, landed on Koch and trickled over the goal line before anyone knew where it was.

The third goal was a good tip in from a slap shot but it wasn't supposed to be. Ray Schott let one go from the left of the Norman goal. As it was in the air the goaltender moved to make the save where he estimated it would land but the puck was deflected off of a Norman defenseman's stick into the net.

Even though the Hawks found themselves trailing by three goals at the halfway point, they didn't give up entirely.

Rick Roulston put the game completely out of reach late in the final period while Engstrom's second goal of the night less than a minute later rapped up the game.

Warren Marshalok spoiled Adrian Kuryliw's shut out attempt when he slid by the Evergreen goaltender with just 1:24 remaining to be played.

Evergreen took seven of the twelve minor penalties and two of the three game misconducts handed out by referees Wagner and Phinney.

Leafs tune-up for the playoffs

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

If anyone felt Wednesday night's National Hockey League game between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens was one of those nothing games, he may well have been wrong.

"We're getting too close to the playoffs," said Toronto coach Red Kelly after his club downed Montreal 5-3.

"Both teams want to stay sharp. It's important. You can't turn it on and off like a tap.

"They know that next week everything's on the line. They know that they can be out in five days."

While the Leafs were busy defeating Montreal for the third time in five meetings this season, Los Angeles Kings clinched third spot in the NHL's West Division with a 4-2 win over fourth-place Atlantj Flames.

In other action, Chicago Black Hawks came from behind to wallop Boston Bruins 6-2, New York Rangers downed Detroit Red Wings 5-3 and Vancouver Canucks defeated California Golden Seals 4-1.

Maple Leafs 5 Canadiens 3

Third-period goals by Garry Monahan, Ron Ellis and Inge Hammarstrom erased a 3-2 Montreal lead and carried the Lefas to victory.

"We've been down and we've been coming back," said Kelly.

"We were down two or three times Saturday and we came back. We were down Sunday in New York and we came back and we were soen tonight and came back.

"All out guys are giving. They're giving all the time.

"Why did we win tonight? We outscored them by two goals. Maybe our guys wanted to win it more."

Jim McKenny and Denis Dupre got the other Toronto goals, while Frank Mahovlich with two and Jacques Lemaire replied for the Canadiens.

Kings 4 Flames 2

Third-period goals by Gene Carr and Don Kozak gave the Kings their win over the Flames in a game which saw referee Art Skov eject Atlanta's Butch Deadmarsh after a second-period fight with Carr.

The Kings skated to a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Butch Goring and Juha Widing onlyto have Atlanta come back in the middle session with rookie Tom Lysiak and veteran Bob Leiter getting goals.

Carr fired a 35-foot drive past Flames goalie Dan Bouchard to oreak the tie at 8:53 of the final session, and Kozak added the insurance goal with less than two minutes to play.

The win was the 32nd for the Kings this year, a club record.

Black Hawks 6 Bruins 2

Pit Martin notched his 29th and 30th goals of the season 17 seconds apart early in the third period to key a six-goal rallythat carried the Black Hawks past Boston.

Germain Gagnon, Doug Jarrett, J. P. Bordeleau and Len Frig got the other goals for the Hawks, who held a 42-28 edge in shots on goal, including a 20-10 superiority in the final period.

Darryl Edestrand and Wayne Cashman replied for the Bruins.

Rangers 5 Red Wings 3

Right winger Rod Gilbert scored a pair of goals and assisted on another to lead New York to its first win since March 24.

Bill Fairbairn also had two goals for the Rangers, with Jean Ratelle adding a single while Pierre Jarry with two and Nick Libett replied for the Red Wings.

Limit on imports considered for CFL

OTTAWA (CP) — Proposed legislation to keep American football leagues out of Canada also may cut the number of import players allowed on Canadian Football League teams, Health Minister Marc Lalonde hinted Wednesday.

Questioned by reporters on whether the present CFL quota will be changed, Mr. Lalonde refused to give details of the proposed bill.

"But I can say it will at least cover the present quota providing that 17 of the 32 players on each time must be Canadians."

A further indication that the import quota may be changed was Mr. Lalonde's comment that "we want to make sure that Canadian kids have a career in football as well as just preserving the league (CFL)."

The bill, which he expects to introduce before Easter, will be aimed primarily at banning the World Football League from operating in Toronto.

Mr. Lalonde said he expects the CFL to support the government's stand on Canadian players in the league.

He also expected that all Liberal MPs in the Commons would back the proposed legislation and played down suggestions that some Toronto-area Liberals oppose banning the WFL.

"I expect the full support of all the Liberal MPs I've talked to, including those from Toronto."

Underdogs post victories

KEEWATIN (staff)--Two underdog teams came up with impressive victories while a third rink blew a six point lead to lose a game in the second last draw of the Keewatin Men's League Wednesday evening.

Al McLeod and Albert Toth defeated a pair of previously undefeated rinks in their section playoffs to force a sudden death, winner-take-all game tonight.

Rollie Morrison who just recently defeated aggregate champion Swen Sjostrom to remain undefeated in the 'A' group finals was beaten by McLeod 10-6.

Albert Toth trounced Edgar LeBleu's foursome 10-4 in the 'B' group play-to force that series into another match, which also is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. tonight.

Although George Morden ran up an impressive 6-1 lead over the undefeated Bob Allen rink after just four ends of play, they appeared to lose their touch and late in the game to be nipped 9-8.

Allen's foursome of third, Leo Savage, second Jack Williams and lead Bill Chukery came on like gangbusters in the fifth end to score five and even the game up.

The Bob Allen rink wins the Shoal Lake Fisheries trophy for the 'C' group championship.

Baseball season starts with two games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Play ball!

With those two little words baseball gets rolling on a new season today—and moves into high gear this weekend.

After opening day specials matching Oakland Athletics, World Series winners, against Texas Rangers and Atlanta Braves against Cincinnati Reds, the major leagues will start swinging harder.

Seven games are scheduled for Friday and 12 for Saturday, including Montreal Expos at home to Chicago.

The Braves and Reds, who kicked off the National League season today in Cincinnati, and the As and Rangers, who start the American League season tonight in Texas, will have the day off Friday, when three games will be played in the National League and four in the American.

In the National, Jerry Ruess has been named to pitch Pittsburgh Pirates' first game against St. Louis Cardinals' Bob Gibson; Steve Arlin of San Diego Padres will face Don Sutton of Los Angeles Dodgers and Davd Roberts is Houston Astros' choice against San Francisco Giants' Tom Bradley.

In the American, Detroit Tigers' Mickey Lolich goes against Baltimore Orioles' Cy Young winner Jim Palmer; Luis Tiant of Boston Red Sox faces Jim Colburn of Milwaukee Brewers; California Angels' Nolan Ryan takes Chicago White Sox Wilbur Wood and Bert Blyleven of Minnesota Twins matched pitches with Kansas City Royals PKAUL Splittorf.

New York Mets, the National League's defending champions, wait until Saturday to start their season. Their game with Philadelphia Phillies pairs two Cy Young winners—Tom Seaver of the Mets and Steve Carlton of the Phillies.

The A's, who beat the Mets in last year's World Series, four games to three, will throw ace Jim (Catfish) Hunter against Texas' Jim Bibby tonight. Bibby pitched a no-hitter against Oakland last season.

The Rangers will be operating with a new set of owners. Bob Short sold 90 per cent of the team for $10 million to a syndicate headed by industrialist Brad Corbett.

In Wednesday's exhibition games, Chicago White Sox beat Pittsburgh 3-1; St. Louis trimmed Kansas City 5-5; Bostonnipped Montreal Expos 4-3; Minnesota ripped Philadelphia 13-7; Chicago Cubs stopped Cleveland Indians 3-1; Los Angeles Dodgers tripped Oakland 4-0; New York Yankees turned back New York Mets 4-1; Houston Astros tripped Detroit Tigers 6-3; San Diego Padres routed the San Diego State College team 11-1 and California Angels beat the University of California-Riverside 5-2.

Similarities pop-up in WHA

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

George Morrison of Minnesota Fighting Saints and Tom Gilmore of Edmonton Oilers of the World Hockey Association have a few things in common.

Each played his last amateur hockey with Denver University, each is a left winger and each scored four goals to lead their teams to victories Wednesday night.

Morrison's effort, in Minnesota's 9-0 triumph over Vancouver Blazers, was the more spectacular, however, as he rapped in three of his four markers in 43 seconds to establish a WHA record.

The professional hockey record for the three fastest goals is held by Bill Mosienko, who scored his in 21 seconds while playing for Chicago Black Hawks in a game against New York Rangers in the 1951-52 National Hockey League season.

It was the first time Morrison, a Toronto native, ever scored more than two goals in a game in his four-year professional career that included two seasons in the NHL with St. Louis Blues.

Gilmore's goals were against Winnipeg Jets, who lost 6-5 in overtime and forfeited their last chance to tie the Oilers for third place in points in the Western Division.

In the only other game Wednesday, Chicago Cougars were relegated to fourth—and last—playoff position in the East when they lost 3-1 to Houston Aeros. They will meet New England Whalers in the first round of the playoffs. Toronto Toros will oppose Cleveland Crusaders.

The WHA schedule ends tonight when the Jets visit the Blazers and New Jersey Knights travel to Los Angeles for a game with the Sharks. Neither game will have a bearing on the standing.

FLIP FLOP SPORT--Rachelle Stockham of the Beaver Brae girls gymnastics team does a back somersault off the low bar during a recent practise session. Rachelle, who is competing in the senior division in the NORWOSSA gymnastics meet which Beaver Brae is hosting this Saturday, will also be one of the numerous local athletes taking part in Gymnastics '74 this April 9-10. McLain wooed by London

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Inter-County Baseball Association senior league could have pitcher Denny McLain as one of its major attractions this season.

London Majors have talked to the former major league star who has given up professional baseball and is involved in business in Detroit.

"If London can't sign him, maybe we can," said manager Jack Dominico of Toronto Maple Leafs.

"We wouldn't mind using him as part of our import quota and it would sure help the league."

McLain reached the peak of his baseball career in 1968 when he won 31 games with Detroit Tigers in the American League. His career declined until he wound up working in the minor leagues last season.

World Baseball Assoc. to begin next season

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was inevitable.

The World Hockey Association, then the World Football League and now the World Baseball Association.

The WBA, announced formally at a news conference Wednesday, is a planned 32-team, four-division league that will play in the United States, Mexico, Central and South America and Asia.

Sean Morton Downey Jr., president of the new association, said the league has plenty of money and will go after established, front-line players to begin play in January, 1975.

The new league wants to sign 160 major league stars for its first year and is in serious negotiation with 70 players who are playing out their options this year.

"We'll better the American and National League salaries, yet our players will have to play less than half the number of games the current major league teams expect of their players," said Downey.

"We anticipate longer player life, more offence in the game, less lengthy games and player participation in operation of the association."

The new association expects to play a 72 to 84-game schedule, compared to the 164-game schedule of the established major leagues.

The organizers said they have made contacts with representatives in 42 cities and have had serious negotiations with backers in 38.

Franchises already have been awarded to Columbus, Ohio; Jersey City, N.J.; Birmingham, Ala.; Memphis, Tenn.; TampaSt. Petersburg, Fla., and Mexico City, Mexico.

Each franchise costs $150,000 and 2½ per cent of all gross revenues annually. The money goes to the WBA, a profit-making corporation that will direct all activities of the league, including hiring of players, coaches and managers and umpires.

A player-manager draft will be held in June.

"All current major league players playing out their options will be given primary consideration in the upcoming draft," said Downey. "Other major league players will be drafted for future contracts. A draft of minor league, college and other players will follow."

Rules changes include the use of five designated hitters to replace defensive players who will remain in the game, the use of one designated runner a game, requiring the pitcher to release a pitch within 20 seconds, three balls instead of four for a walk and two runs for stealing home after the sixth inning.

B.C. rink captures postal championship

EDMONTON (CP) — Dale Walker drew to the eight-foot circle with his last rock to give defending champion British Columbia its sixth consecutive win in the Canadian curling postal championship Wednesday night.

The win moved B.C. into a first-place tie with Northern Ontario. Both teams have 6-0 records.

With the score tied 8-8 after 12 ends, Walker chose to ignore two Alberta stones in the 12-foot ring and drew for the winning point. The loss was Alberta's fourth and moved the rink into a seventh-place tie with New Brunswick.

In other seventh-round play, Prince Edward Island skipped by Irv MacKinnon defeated Ron Cormier of Nova Scotia 8-7, Manitoba, skipped by Ed Hanny, defeated Jean Claude Garand of Quebec 8-6, Bob Wilkins of Saskatchewan downed Allan Manzer of New Brunswick 9-4 and Ontario's Walter Hollick beat Newfoundland's Dennis Byrne 12-7.

In earlier action, Northern Ontario, skipped Ron Rosengren, won its sixth game by defeating Nova Scotia 13-12 on an extra end.

After seven rounds Northern Ontario is 6-0, British Columbia 6-0, Saskatchewan 4-2, Prince Edward Island 4-3, Nova Scotia 3-3, Manitoba 3-3, Alberta 3-4, New Brunswick 3-4, Ontario 2-4, Newfoundland 1-6, Quebec 0-6.

1,634 sea-goers saved from QE

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — The Norwegian cruise ship Sea Venture brought the 1,634 passengers and 20 crew members of the drifting Queen Elizabeth 2 into Hamilton harbor today.

The Sea Venture's horn was blaring, and the rescued passengers were lining the rails, waving to the few people on the docks, as the ship began to tie up.

It was a wet, sunny day.

"You win zhen nobody gets hurt, and you win when everybody gets home safely," said one of the QE2's passengers, coach Hank Stram of Kansas City Chiefs. "That's what happened in this particular case. Here we had a great mixture of people who handled themselves in a poised, disciplined and patient way."

Milk rising 5c

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board said Wednesday Ontario milk prices may rise five cents a quart April 15.

George McLaughlin said in an interview the board—which represents farmers—would meet today with the Ontario Dairy Council—which represents processors—to make final arrangements for the increase.

"We still haven't decided how much of that five cents a quart will go to farmers and how much to dairies," he said.

"We haven't even made a final decision on whether the full five-cent increase will go into effect April 15. We're worried about the effect it might have on our sales."

Mr. McLaughlin said the board received permission this week from Ottawa for a fivecent increase.

The federal government gave the dairy industry a $108-million subsidy last September in order to freeze prices for 12 months. But Mr. McLaughlin said farmers' costs have risen so quickly that the freeze is no longer feasible.

A five-cent increase would raise the price of a quart of milk in Toronto 41 cents.

Pompidou buried

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou was buried today after a church service in the little cemetery at Orvilliers attended only by his family.

The private eight-minute burial was simple in accordance with Pompidou's wishes, with only a short eulogy by a local priest.

Pompidou had a country house in Orvilliers, 35 miles from Paris, and said in a note written 20 months ago that he wanted to be buried there.

Before the burial, Pompidou's widow, Claude, and his associates in five years in power held a simple funeral service in Paris.

Dryden man suffers cuts

A Dryden resident, George Boissonneault, was treated for cuts and bruises at the Lake of the Woods District Hospital following a two-vehicle accident at 4:40 p.m. Wednesday, east of Kenora, in the vicinity of Richard Lake, on Hwy. 17 E.

OPP at Kenora say that a van operated by Allan Bartlett of McKenzie Island, Ont., was westbound on Hwy. 17 when it went out of control and crossed into the eastbound lane. It was struck broadside by a late model pickup truck which was driven by Mr. Boissonneault.

Damages to the Boissonneault's truck amounted to an estimated $4,000 and to the other vehicle $500.

Hydraulic jack found in prison

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) -- Prison guards generally are not surprised when they turn up hacksaw blades, files and cut-down baseball bats in cell searches.

They also know prisoners have ingenious methods to smuggle them in.

But they are scratching their heads over discovery of a hydraulic jack capable of lifting five tons that turned up recently in a Millhaven penitentiary cell.

Trudeau marks 6th year in office

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal Liberal caucus held a sixth anniversary party Wednesday for Prime Minister Trudeau.

Today he will have been national Liberal leader six years.

More than 200 persons—caucus members and their wives—filled a large West Block committee room for a dinner dance that featured lobster and filet mignon. The room was decorated with poster-sized photographs of Mr. Trudeau's six years.

He and Mrs. Trudeau were given a silver bowl to mark the occasion and Mrs. Trudeau was given a replica of her bridal bouquet.

Law doesn't stick for stickers

OTTAWA (CP) — About 12 cases in which motorists received tickets for not sticking the 1974 Ontario validation strip on their licence plates have been thrown out of provincial court here.

There is no regulation under the Highway Traffic Act covering the affixing of the stickers, says a provincial prosecutor. The act only stipulates that a vehicle be properly registered and that there be licence plates on the front and rear of the vehicle.

Ontario began using the validation strip system this year instead of issuing full new plates.

But there will be no refunds for motorists who pleaded guilty and paid the $20 ticket for not affixing the strip.

"People are reluctant to come to court," the prosecutor said. "If they did, they might benefit in cases like this."

Nixon owes $468,000 in taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional committee investigating President Nixon's income taxes closed its case today with a commendation to the president "for his prompt decision" to pay about $465,000 in back income taxes and interest.

The joint committee on internal revenue taxation received a report from its staff Wednesday estimating that Nixon owes $476,431 in back taxes and interest.

A short time later, the White House said the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has prepared a separate report concluding that Nixon owed about $465,000 in back taxes and interest and Nixon would pay the amount estimated by the IRS.

After a brief session today, the committee issued a statement saying in part:

"While we have not completely analyzed all of the technical aspects of the report, the members agree with the substance of most of the recommendations made by the staff.

"Because of the president's decision to pay the deficiencies and interest for 1969 through 1972, as asserted by the IRS, whose determinations closely approximate the recommendations of the committee's staff, the joint committee on internal revenue taxation has decided to conclude its examination of the president's returns."

"The committee commends the president for his prompt decision to make these tax payments."

White House officials said Wednesday Nixon probably will be forced to borrow some money to make the tax payments, which total about half his reported net worth.

Smoke causes vision loss

HAMILTON (CP) — Exposure to cigar smoke may cause a gradual loss of vision and even blindness, ophthalmologist said Wednesday.

Dr. Ronald Zahoruk of McMaster University told a seminar on neurosciences that the blindness is caused by cynaide in cigars which is much more prevalent than in cigarettes.

Hearst girl turns tables, plans to stay with captors

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — Patricia Hearst, the publishing heiress kidnapped two months ago today, says she has become a revolutionary and joined forces with her captors.

Her father, Randolph Hearst, newspaper president and editor, had spent $2 million and promised $4 million more in food handouts for the release of his daughter.

"I can never go back to the life I led before," 20-year-old Miss Hearst said in a tape recording sent to a radio station Wednesday along with a photograph of herself clutching a submachine-gun.

In the message, she said she has taken the name Tanya to stay with the revolutionary Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA).

"I have chosen to stay and fight ... I only wish that you could be a comrade," she told her father.

Hearst said Wednesday night he does not believe her statement.

Catherine Hearst, who told reporters the voice on the tape recording was definitely that of her daughter, later appeared with her husband outside the family mansion near here and said:

"I know my girl very well and I know she'd never join any organization like that without being coerced."

Hearst said: "Personally, I don't believe it. We have had her 20 years, they have had her 60 days. And I don't believe she is going to change her philosophy so quickly."

But his daughter denied she was tortured, drugged or hypnotized into making her statement. "This is the way I want it ... the way I feel," she said.

She accused her father of being a liar, and said he should do more to help oppressed people.

She said she has decided to become a revolutionary because her parents have abandoned her.

Hearst appealed to the SLA to let Patricia return home to discuss the matter with the family. "... If it's her choice to become a member of an organization like this, we still love her and she is free to do whatever she wants to do," he said.

Watch those pitfalls

Reasons for the failure of housing projects were outlined by visiting resource persons at the Housing Seminar in Kenora last weekend. Representatives of several groups present at the seminar requested the information, so they might avoid such pitfalls in future developments.

Interim financing, or "start up" money, was outlined as a definite need in initial stages of housing development. Groups have outlined that severe housing shortages have faced them on different occasions, and although total project financing can become available through Ontario Housing Corporation or Central Mortgage and Housing, dollars are needed to service land in preparation for housing.

Houses must be built before mortgage financing is possible, and no mortgage money can be freed until title to the land is secured. Title to land is not granted until the mortgage is paid, representatives stated.

Provincially-owned land was cited as another pitfall. Discussions brought forward positive resolutions to petition government for a lift of the freeze on crown land. The freeze was cited as the cause of inflationary prices on the housing market.

Housing manufacturers were cited as the third possible pitfall. In the past, deadlines have been missed by pre-fab manufacturers, throwing entire project timetables off schedule.

A fourth reason for project failures was cited as the shortage of "back up" tracts of land. Some land sites have been found unsuitable after housing has started, and groups in serious need of housing may either proceed on the poor quality land, or abandon the project entirely.

Another problem, cited by resource persons at the seminar occurred when groups overestimated the need for housing and have built too many units. The result was that there was more mortgage commitments than the group could afford to pay, causing a break down in financial stability of the project.

One last reason for the failure of housing projects was cited as the lack of experience and prior knowledge in housing with many non-profit groups. Groups have not studied housing pitfalls and procedure with authorities in the past, with the resulting failure of projects.

It was recommended that there be core groups in Northwestern Ontario consisting of resource persons from many housing sectors. This "brain trust" as it was dubbed, could be called upon to assist amateur groups in community development enterprises.

Follow-up administration of housing projects was noted at the seminar as a key factor is ensuring the success of a project. Often, it was mentioned, executive members of non-profit organizations were inexperienced in the administration of housing - requiring some coaching in rental rates, insurance, and general landlord-tenant obligations.

Interpreting the news

Kent State indictments show attitude change

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Kent State indictments, brought down in period of quiet reflection, illustrate the extent of change in United States attitudes over the last four years.

On May 4, 1970, when a 13second burst from National Guard rifles killed four and wounded nine on the campus near Cleveland, the country was in ferment.

Anti-war demonstrators were on the m..rch. There were burnings and bombings on the campuses.

Such was the depth of violence and hate around Kent State and other universities that some shouted "they asked for it" in referring to the young victims. Others screamed for retribution.

A State grand jury not only declined to indict members of the National Guard, they indicted more than 20 students and faculty members. Virtually all charges later were dropped.

ALL WERE VICTIMS

Today, four years later, with indictments returned against eight young guardsmen, there is a feeling that those finally charged may be as much victims of the time and the attitudes as those who were killed.

Whatever the verdict, few disagree that the shootings at Kent State marked the high-water point of an era as distinctive in U.S. history as the Prohibition period, the Roaring '20s and the Depression.

That campus violence was rapidly easing was evident a year ago when scores of students braved chilling wind and rain to maintain silent anniversary vigil through the night.

One speaker said time had carried the situation "beyond lamentations and anger."

But in all that time, until former attorney-general Elliot Richardson reopened the case a few months ago, it had seemed no formal, final accounting would ever be made—not of the episode itself or of the judicial actions that followed.

FATHER COMMENTS

The reopening brought no cries of vindication, only the quiet words of Arthur Krause, father of a 19-year-old girl who died under the guard guns.

"I don't think justice was very evenhanded under Mr. Mitchell or Mr. Kleindienst, and I think Mr. Richardson is trying to make justice evenhanded again," Krause said.

John Mitchell and Richard Kleindienst are former attorneys-general.

The investigation launched by Richardson, almost the first thing he did on taking office, culminated in charges. Further indication of the current calm can be seen in the lack of rejoicing that, finally, the case will be disposed of according to due process of law.

"There is no happiness in this matter," Krause said.

The agony of Kent State remains, especially for the parents of those slain and for the survivors. The anger and the conditions under which it was spawned are gone.

Moslems

Someone's out to get them

BOMBAY (CP) — A recent Islamic summit conference attended by representatives of 38 Moslem countries in Lahore has created apprehension among some non-Moslem powers that some kind of action is planned against them on purely religious grounds.

Indians were particularly concerned by some recent observations by President Gaddafy of Libya.

Describing Pakistan as the "chief fortress of resurgent Islam in the world," Gadafy singled out India by implication as the "main enemy of Islam in Asia." He called on all Moslem countries to rally to Pakistan's support.

At the secret meetings in Lahore some Moslem delegations were reported to have been critical of India's attitude to Pakistan. But a subsequent visit to New Delhi by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat convinced Indian leaders that the "crusaders" against India at the conference were in the minority.

HOPES TO BENEFIT

The Indian government hopes it will benefit by the summit's decision to give substantial relief to "Islamic and other developing countries" affected by the oil crisis.

The general feeling in India, Sri Lanka, Nepal and Burma— all of them non-Moslem countries—is that once the Arab-Israeli dispute is settled, most of the Moslem powers will begin to drift away from each other.

But observers said that the danger of some ardent Islamic countries aiding Moslem rebels in various parts of Asia cannot be ruled out.

Most worrying is the continued assistance given to the Moslem rebellion in southern Philippines by Chief Minister Tun Mustapha of Sabah province in the Malaysian federation. Libya also is believed to be helping the Moslem rebels in the Philippines.

The Moslem rebels in the Sulu province of the Phillipines stepped up their war against President Marcos on the eve of the Islamic summit. They occupied the capital of Sulu province for some days, causing destruction.

Reports of behind-the-scenes deliberations at the Lahore summit circulating in India suggest that Col. Gaddafy's call for armed help to the rebellion in the Philippines did not receive majority support.

But two speakers are said to have argued that just as oil is being used as a weapon to force the Western nations to adopt a more pro-Arab stand, it also should be employed to engender the "emancipation" of "oppressed" Moslem minority groups as in the Philippines.

Letters to the editor

Tree spraying angers resident

EDITOR:

A few years ago I had some five year old apple and plum trees just ready to bear fruit. That spring all the trees but one turned a rusty red and died.

I attributed this to winter kill. I contacted a nursery man from Manitoba who was visiting Kenora. He came out to my place and told me that my trees would not winter kill as they were grown on the prairies and were hardy varieties. He then asked if a power line ran close to the garden and did the hydro use a spray along it. When I assured him that this was the case and the hydro line had been sprayed by ground equipment he said he did not even have to look at the trees so positive was he of the cause.

He declared that the spray would kill an apple tree from a distance as far as two miles from the spray site. If anyone doubts the above statement I suggest they walk along any hydro line and look at the many young dead spruce and poplar trees throughout the forested area on either side of the power line. Under ideal conditions with zero wind, spraying is safe but when there is even a light breeze and convection currents the poison is scattered widely.

I contacted hydro and was told this would not happen as the men are careful. A week later a man came around from hydro. He was born in Belgium and really knew his business. He looked at the fruit trees and some of the dead native trees in the bush and admitted it was caused by the spray. I was offered compensation, but how do you put a value on five years of waiting and the loss of the fruit for many years to come? I told him all I wanted was the hydro to stop spraying on my property in the future.

A compromise was reached and the poison is now put on the trees as an oil mixture. It is still possible that some of this growth hormone finds its way into the well and drinking this would not do a person any good.

If you bought your fruit trees from southern Ontario or other warmer climates do not blame the hydro if they die as they cannot stand our climate. Many thousands of dollars are thrown away by our citizens who are taken in by fancy illustrated catalogues. If you have hardy prairie stock however, and the symptoms are dead leaves the hydro is possibly at fault and should be blamed.

Fruit trees take very little care after they are planted imported fruit cannot compare with fresh fruit off your own trees. In the early spring your trees will be loaded with fragrant blossoms.

I have no quarrel with the Ontario Hydro as they have been very fair to me.

I welcome a letter to the editor from the hydro stating their defence for spraying as it will be out in the open and the public can read it. Comments from other persons would be welcome also but only if they have the courage to sign their right names.

The solution as I see it is to convince the hydro that they should go back to cutting and burning the brush by the use of manpower in inhabited areas.

Drug store badly needed

EDITOR:

I would like to extend my personal thanks to Keewatin councillors Robert Kahoot and Tom Kozak for their efforts in getting a doctor for the community.

The new doctor is an asset to the community and I do hope the people of Keewatin will support him.

I would also like to give a vote of thanks to Harold and Joyce Johnson who kept the drugstore open for a few years here. One thing I liked about Mr. Johnson is that you could get a prescription when you needed it.

At this point I'm wondering if anyone is going to take the drugstore over or not? This is one facility people of the community need very badly. If you want a prescription you have to get on the bus and go for it.

I would like to wish Mr. and Mrs. Johnson the best in their retirement.

Religion

Were Adam and Eve real people

CHICAGO (Reuter) — A modern-day religious battle is being fought among Lutherans in the Midwest over such biblical questions as whether Adam and Eve were real people.

At the world's biggest Lutheran seminary, professors have been dismissed from their teaching posts, students have gone into theological exile and the president has been suspended on charges of advocating a false doctrine.

These are some of the major advelopments in a bitter theological confrontation between conservatives and moderates in the 2.8 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri synod, the 8second biggest Lutheran church in the United Staes, founded by German immigrants 126 years ago.

The Missouri-based church has congregations in all states and missionaries in 30 countries.

Among the theological questions dividing the church is whether there really was a snake in the Garden of Eden.

Conservative members support a literal translation of the Bible, saying that questioning the snake and the tree of good and evil undermines the authority of the Bible.

Moderates maintain that some biblical lessons give moral guidance and do not necessarily describe actual happenings.

PREUS TRIES HARD

After a decade of progress by moderates in their attempt to bring the traditionally conservative church closer to the mainstream of American Lutheranism, conservativesbegan a systematic effort to regain full control, starting with the 1969 election of Dr. Jacob Preus, a diehard conservative, as president of the church senate.

Dr. Preus has spent much of his time as president trying to correct what he regards as false teaching of the Doctrine at Concordia—latin for harmony— Lutheran seminary in St. Louis, Mo.

The seminary president, Dr. John Tietjen, a church moderate, defended his professors against conservative attacks and allowed them to interpret scriptures by the historical-critical method, suggesting that some biblical accounts could be myths.

The confrontation came to a head last January when Tietjen, 45, was suspended as seminary president. A 20-page report prepared by church pastors accused him of holding and fostering false doctrine and of malfeasance in administration.

Five hundred undergraduates at the seminary voted to boycott classes until the 130-member board of control "officially and publicly declares which members of the faculty, if any, are false teachers."

Forty-five members of the faculty and staff joined in the boycott and were told to return to their classrooms or be dismissed. They refused and were dismissed.

Looking back

30 YEARS AGO

Five new mines at Red Lake are issuing prospectuses and issuing stock with authorized capital from three to four million shares.

The sum of $16.50 was brought into the Miner and News for the Red Cross Society, it being the proceeds of a curling game between the Masonic and Oddfellows' lodges of Kenora and Keewatin.

A number of applications for naturalization, under the new regulations as set out by the Department of State are to be heard by Judge Popham.

Applications for naturalization now appear three times before the judge before their naturalization papers are finally granted, instead of once as formerly.

20 YEARS AGO

Keewatin council trims costs on various items. The Keewatin town band appealed for financial aid. A request from Keewatin citizens asked the town provide toilet facilities for the use of ball fans as they have been trespassing on private property. The matter of transportation for the Keewatin Police was left in cold storage as a councilman declared the price of requested motorcycles too high and suggested a used car instead.

10 YEARS AO

Dr. Peter Playfair, medical officer of health, Northwestern Health Unit reports the unit will undertake an immunization program in area schools for grades 1, 4, 8 and 12 to be grought up to date.

Mrs. Len Howard of 7th Ave. S., won first prize in the B.C. Apple Recipe contest sponsored by CJRL and the B.C. apple growers. Her winning recipe was for apple sponge pie.

Receiving accolades

Munro the mediator

OTTAWA (CP) — The successful personal intervention of Labor Minister John Munro in the Great Lakes shipping strike has won him unexpected accolades and offset an embarrassing reverse he suffered during the railway dispute last year.

Early this week, after strenuous and nearly continuous negotiating efforts from Thursday afternoon to Monday morning, the minister and his assistants helped representatives of 3,750 seafarers and the Canadian Lake Carriers' Association achieve a tentative contract agreement in Montreal.

That settlement is almost sure to be accepted by the seamen.

Early results in a ratification vote indicate an overwhelming majority favor the proposed agreement that gives the workers annual wage increases of 10 per cent and 12 per cent, respectively, in each year of a two-year agreement.

Seamen in Montreal and Quebec City have accepted the settlement and votes from four Ontario cities and the Atlantic region are expected by Thursday.

Mr. Munro's part in the settling of the potentially-serious walkout has brought him praise from the union and shippers, kudos froh New Democratic Leader David Lewis, and, more quietly, individual congratulations from prominent Conservatives.

SINK OR SWIM

But last summer, Mr. Munro found himself in a different position.

As rotating strikes of 57,000 non-operating railway workers hit one region after another in July and August, he leaped into the troubled waters of the contract dispute.

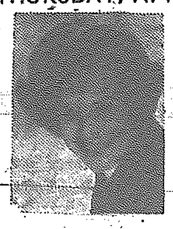
His efforts failed after several days, the rotating strikes escalated into a national walkout and Parliament had to be recalled to deal with the dispute.

He recalled in an interview Tuesday that perhaps he had given an overly-optimistic impression to the public during the rail dispute. In fact, he said, he was less happy about the possible results of his intervention privately.

Last Wednesday, when he announced his intention of going to Montreal, he was careful not to overstate his optimism.

When Mr. Munro called the parties together last week, they had not been talking since the 12-day strike began.

Dear Abby:



A cry for help from a cigaret addict

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is me! I smoke between three and four packs of cigarets a day and I can't quit. I have thrown them away, packs at a time. I've been to three "stop-smoking" programs and went back to smoking after each one. If I don't have a cigaret after 15 minutes, I become so nervous I am ready to climb the wall.

I have been to a hypnotist, a psychiatrist and a psychologist and they couldn't help me. I have become an addict just like an alcoholic. If I don't have a smoke I can't function.

Please don't say, "You can quit if you want to," because nobody wants to quit as much as I do, Abby, but I just can't help myself. I know I am going to smoke myself right into the grave, but there seems to be nothing I can do about it. Can you help me? HOOKED IN BIRMINGHAM

DEAR HOOKED: I don't know what "stop-smoking" programs you've attended, but I've had some excellent reports about several. You may have a nicotine addiction, so see a physician. [But choose one who doesn't smoke!] I KNOW you can quit, because two of my best friends were as hooked as you—and they both quit—cold turkey! Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Florida executive. When gasoline became scarce, I forbade my wife to drive to church on Sundays. I have nothing against religion, but the church is 15 miles from our home. My wife says she will quit driving to church the day I quit driving to the golf course.

Abby, this isn't possible because my position in the company depends upon my entertaining clients, so in a sense I must play golf for business reasons.

Please tell my wife how wrong you think she is.

FORT MEYERS EXECUTIVE

DEAR EXECUTIVE: I don't think your wife is wrong at all. Her spiritual needs may be as important to her as your business connections are to you.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is primarily one of vanity. For years I have been conscious of the fact that all the women in my family have faces that start to sag early. By the time they are 40, they look like bulldogs.

I am in my early 30s, and already I can see the same thing happening to me. Is there anything I can do about it? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: See a dermatologist for advice on how to slow up the aging process. And see a plastic surgeon later.

Sioux Narrows district report

BY ELIZABETH JOHNSON

Tom Rennie, campaign co-ordinator for the Ontario Cancer Society, spoke at the noon luncheon in the church hall on Mar. 27 presenting methods of canvassing and collecting for the 1974 drive for funds.

Pictures of Amethyst House in Thunder Bay were shown by Mrs. Audry Lailey, chairman of district service to patients for Northwestern Ontario. This was of great interest to people here. It is literally a home away from home where mobile patients on treatment or recent discharges from hospital can stay without charge while in the city for continued treatment or therpy.

It opened in 1972, it has been furnished for out of town patients in Northwestern Ontario.

Mrs. Marion Magnusson, vice chairman, of service to patients in Thunder Bay, and Blair MacKenzie, field secretary of Ontario Cancer Society from Sault Ste. Marie, were in attendance. Lunch was served by Mesdames Benson and Fugate. The officials left for Fort Frances where an evening meeting had been arranged.

That delightful aroma of cedar is still evident in the Western Red Cedar from B.C. which was selected for the open ceiling of the new addition to Sioux Narrows Builders Supply. It is 40' x 48' in size allowing 2000 sq. feet of floor space.

Laminated arches from Boisevain, Man., support the open ceiling, a new concept in building. To provide insulation two layers of stryofoam type material covered the roof before laying asphalt shingles.

Large 5 x 8 windows are across the front of the store while on the opposite wall, shelves extend the full length.

To complete the interior decor, cedar shakes are used from the top of the wall to the ceiling.

Mr. Brishke plans to carry a full line of hardware in order to provide a home centre to service and maintain a cottage or home. Building materials are available.

A concrete floor to the carpet-covered will be finished before the official opening this coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Rodegard motored to Rainy River for the weekend where Dorothy and Harvey Fedoruk participated in the Rainy River Bonspiel. Slippery road conditions made walking hazardous and Mrs. Rodegard sustained a nasty fall.

Best wishes for a speedy recovery to Mr. Lorne Fadden who had the misfortune of fracturing his leg on Saturday.

To Mrs. Judy Brishke who was a patient recently in Fort Frances hospital, our get well wishes are extended.

Tax Tips

Q. When filing my tax return, should interest be declared in the year it is earned or the year it is received?

A. You may report interest as income either when you become entitled to receive it, or when you actually receive it, but you must follow the same method regularly from year to year.

Q. What action should I take if my employer has not deducted Canada Pension Plan contributions or Unemployment Insurance premiums?

A. If you are employed under a contract of service, that is employee-employer relationship, the onus for making these deductions rests with the employer. You should therefore, report this omission to the nearest District Taxation Office as soon as possible and, in any event, not later than April 30 following the year the omission occurred.

Q. I receive tips as well as salary. My Canada Pension Plan contributions have been calculated on my basic salary only. I know I must report the amount of my tips as income. Will I be allowed to pay in extra Canada Pension contributions as this would allow me to receive maximum benefits.

A. Yes, you may make additional Canada Pension Plan contributions based on the income you have received in tips. You make contributions on the additional income you have earned in tips, at a rate of 3.6 percent.

Q. My father qualifies as a dependant and each year on my tax form I have to fill in all the information regarding his age, income, etc. Is it not possible for me to just put "See last year's return" so that I do not have ti fill in the same details each year?

A. If you omit any of this information on your tax form, you are probably going to delay the processing of your return. Therefore, you should enter all the information asked for each year.

Q. I understand that to qualify as a dependant for income tax purposes my mother's income must not be more than $1,150. Does this mean her net income or her gross income?

A. It means her net income before decuting her personal exemptions, chairtable donations or medical expenses.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENT

-IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc. for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

-BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information.

-MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

-PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions.

-GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

-CLASSIFIED ADS THAT FAIL to bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.
